19 American POWs 'Afraid' To Come Home

Source In Panmunjom Says Reds Drumming Terror Into Prisoners

PANMUNJOM (AP) — A reliable source said tonight that only chains of fear are holding back 19 of the 22 American war prisoners who have refused to return home.

The other three, he said, are confirmed Communists who are dominating the little group of Americans who stayed behind.

The source, who declined use of his name, said the three Communist Americans and their Red captors had drummed terror of going home into the 19 by telling them they are outside American law and can be executed as traitors.

He painted a bleak, gray picture of the neutral zone camp where the 22 Americans are held with 1 Briton and 332 South Koreans—a handful of deceived, bewildered and frightened men, afraid to remain behind but more fearful of going home because they believe home means death.

MEANWHILE, stung by failure to even get started on planning the Korean peace conference, U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean said after today's session with the Communists that they are "turning out propaganda" instead of negotiating.

The talks have been stymied since their start a week ago by Red insistence on talking first about who will attend the full-scale conference.

Dean has insisted just as strongly that the time and place be settled first.

The seventh meeting apparently got nowhere, but Dean told newsmen later that he still feels they might be able to organize the big meeting. He said the discussions have been preliminary skirmishes.

Basically, the break is over whether to invite nonbelligerents to the peace conference. The Communists say yes and the U. N. says no.

The erratic Communist program to woo back anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners floundered in uncertainty tonight after a Red dispute with the Indian command, which guards the 24,600 POWs.

The Communists called off today's scheduled interviews with 500 Koreans after the Indians refused to let the Reds make loudspeaker broadcasts to the POWs awaiting interviews.

THE U. N. Command said late in the afternoon it had been told officially the Reds would interview more Koreans Tuesday, but an Indian spokesman said later he believed the Reds would not hold the explanations.

Council Plans Meeting During Tally Of Votes

City Council will hold its first November meeting Tuesday night—with one ear tuned on returns coming into Pickaway County board of elections offices across Franklin St.

Councilmen John Robinson and Boyd Horn probably will have a hard time concentrating on routine business, Robinson being a candidate for mayor and Horn seeking re-election in the fourth ward. Other councilmen are unopposed for reelection.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt said little business had been listed for the meeting up to Monday noon. However, the lawmakers may take action on what the solicitor's pay will be when he takes on added duties as prosecutor under the municipal court setup.

An ordinance to "set" the salary of the parking meter maintenance man previously was withheld from consideration in a way which indicated it may crop up suddenly again. And Council may be able to take final action on a tabled measure which would relieve the city park board of a water bill.

The latter ordinance was set aside last meeting for further check on legal angles involved.

Robber Is Added To 'Wanted' List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Franklin James Wilson, 52, who has a long record as a robber in the Chicago area, today was added to the FBI's list of "10 Most Wanted Fugitives."

Wilson was last in custody in August 1951. Police then caught him and three accomplices staging an armed holdup of a private home in Chicago. Wilson was indicted but obtained liberty on a $30,000 bond, which he jumped. The FBI said it believed that he afterward went to the west coast.

Gen. George C. Marshall — Dr. Albert Schweitzer

THE NORWEGIAN NOBEL institute has announced that Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 78, Alsatian medical missionary and philosopher, and Gen. George C. Marshall, 72, former U. S. Secretary of State, have been awarded the Nobel Peace Prizes. Dr. Schweitzer was given the award for 1952 and Gen. Marshall for 1953. The latter's award carries a $33,840 prize in cash, Schweitzer's $33,610. Both winners were invited to Oslo December 13 to receive the Nobel diploma, a plaque and check.

Supreme Court Justice Says Legal Profession Challenged

CHICAGO (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme Court said today the administration of criminal law is "a humiliation and discredit" to lawyers and the nation.

This country, he said, is plagued by unprecedented delinquency among young people and "shocking crimes."

On the international scene, he added, there is a great struggle for military supremacy in which "no nation is more force-minded than our own."

The associate justice of the highest court declared such conditions hurl a challenge to the leadership of the legal profession.

He was the No. 1 speaker at ceremonies held in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new American Bar Center on Chicago's South Side.

Jackson stated:

"Our nation is plagued with unprecedented juvenile delinquency, gangsterism and shocking crimes followed only by long-delayed punishment or by none.

"The administration of our criminal law, from one cause or another, is a humiliation and a discredit to our profession and our country.

"AND EVEN civil justice is still delayed or denied, and often beyond the reach of deserving men and women.

"The titanic struggle for military superiority now being waged between nations is on the assumption that material, not moral, force will determine the destinies of people.

"No nation is more force-minded today than our own. The people are burdened and unhappy under it, but they do not know how to withdraw because the stakes seem to be so high that the dreadful game must be played on to fortune or ruin.

"And within each nation the internal struggle for power between classes, creeds, races and ideologies tends to take on the same uncompromising character."

Jackson said the legal profession in this country has proclaimed its belief in law and in the rule of law as the best hope to bring order and peace to the nation and world.

"And if a peaceful and stable international order ever is reached,' he said, "it is not rash to predict that it will result from the acceptance by the professions of all nations of an international role of law as a curb on lawless power in control of great states. I do not expect that in my time."

The speech preceded the laying of a cornerstone for the new $2 million American Bar Center near the University of Chicago. It will consist of two joined buildings. One will be the headquarters of the American Bar Assn. The other will house a national legal library and research center.

Tito Ready To Bargain On Trieste Issue

BELGRADE (AP)—Persons close to the Yugoslav foreign office are circulating reports that Marshal Tito is willing to bargain with the West on Trieste. They say he might offer close military cooperation, possibly joining the Atlantic Pact, in return for concessions on the disputed territory.

The reports over the weekend may have been trial balloons to test reaction. However they came from sources so closely connected with the foreign office that they could not be discounted.

Yugoslav demands were uncertain. But as a minimum, it was said, Tito probably would expect outright annexation of Trieste's Zone A, which contains the important port city of Trieste.

Yugoslavia already has military control of Zone B, the territory surrounding the port. Zone A is held by Britain and the United States, who have announced their intention of turning that area over to Italy. Strong Yugoslavia opposition has caused the two Western allies to postpone this move.

Meanwhile, Yugoslavia awaited an invitation to a proposed five-nation conference among the United States, France, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia, which has been suggested by the Big Three as a method for solving the thorny Trieste quarrel.

This country already has indicated its willingness to take part in such a meeting provided there are no conditions attached.

Benson Says Mail Opposes Props

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Benson said today mail received by the Agriculture Department since a caravan of cattlemen came here last week is running 25 to 1 against cattle price supports.

The caravan, sponsored by the National Farmers Union had pleaded for direct price supports.

Benson also said reports from cattle markets in recent days showed considerable improvement in prices of lower grade cattle.

Ohioan To Get Life Sentence

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Robert K. Stober of Ada, Ohio will be sentenced to life in prison Thursday for the murder of a New Orleans liquor store operator.

Stober was convicted Saturday night of murder without capital punishment. The life sentence is mandatory.

The jury considered the case two and one-half hours before returning the guilty verdict against the 20-year-old Stober.

The store operator, 53-year-old George Fremin, was killed in an attempted robbery in his store.

AFL Sees Chance For CIO Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL said today there is "a definite possibility" of unity with the CIO but not with John L. Lewis because, "Good Lord, he's the fellow who split the AFL."

Meany said that Lewis "says every once in a while that there can be no unity without the miners. That's baloney. We can have a lot of unity without the miners. I'm not saying that the miners wouldn't be in. There won't be any decision made not to let them in."

Hidden Factors Carry Weight In City Voting

Major community problems to some degree will be factors to sway the tide when Circleville voters go to the polls Tuesday, but a variety of hidden currents—some political and some personal—will determine results of the two city contests.

Questions linked directly or indirectly with the city's expansion program have been the most frequently mentioned in pre-election statements by candidates in the two races— for mayor and for councilman of the fourth ward. Less important matters on the surface of community affairs also have figured in some of the public claims and compliments.

Far more powerful in setting the final tally, however, will be many other things the candidates wouldn't talk about for publication.

Candidates in the contest for councilman of the fourth ward—Republican Jack Heeter and Boyd Horn, Democrat incumbent—have been more outspoken than the two mayoralty aspirants, Dr. Robert E. Hedges, Republican, and Councilman John Robinson, Democrat.

THE CUSTOMARY pushing and pulling in politics - beneath-the-surface has been evident with the approach of the elections. The usual quota of pre-election promises has been reported and, in some cases, admitted. In at least one case pre-voting assurance appears to be linked to one of the jobs in the municipal court system, due to start here Jan. 1.

Strange allies have been claimed in and around City Hall, and it appeared voting will have little respect for party lines under the pressure of strictly local matters. In public statements candidates have indicated some of their views as follows:

Hedges — Favors expansion "as long as we don't forget the people of Circleville." Claims Council has been "stalling" on bypass efforts. Warns that "politics" must be kept out of the city "utility department." Opposes any "consideration" of a city in-

Julius, Dorothy Silent On Her Hubby's Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Julius La Rosa and the woman he says he loves, Dorothy McGuire, are maintaining strict silence on latest developments concerning her husband, Sgt. John Henry Brown.

La Rosa's managers said last night he had "absolutely no comment" to make on the Army's refusal to let Brown return to the United States from Korea on emergency leave.

When Miss McGuire arrived at La Guardia Field last night from a weekend visit with her parents in Miamisburg, Ohio, she said:

"I don't want to answer any questions."

In Miamisburg, her father, Asa C. McGuire, said she "just came home for a weekend" and that they "didn't even talk" about her marital status.

The romance between the two entertainers, who worked together on the Arthur Godfrey radio and television programs, was reported by La Rosa's manager in the furor following Godfrey's firing of La Rosa two weeks ago. Miss McGuire has yet to confirm or deny the reports.

La Rosa, 23, says he plans to marry Miss McGuire, 22, as soon as legal and religious obstacles could be cleared away. He is a Roman Catholic and she is not. Her mother is a Protestant minister.

Brown said late last week he was hoping for a leave in order to see Miss McGuire, "talk to her and then decide what to do." He added that whatever he decides "will be for the benefit" of her happiness.

Educator Dies

COLUMBUS (AP)—Russell McVicker, 65, president of the Chillicothe board of education, died yesterday in University Hospital. He became ill while attending the Ohio State-Northwestern football game.

2¼ Million Ballots Expected To Be Cast In Ohio Tomorrow

COLUMBUS (AP)—Candidates for city, village and township offices in Ohio wound up their election campaigns today and sat back to await results.

Voters tomorrow will give them their answers by marking preferences on ballots at polling places open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

They also will decide on school board members and pass on some 1,400 local bond issues, tax levies and other questions, most of them dealing with school matters. A dozen communities will vote on wet-dry questions.

Only two proposals commanded statewide interest in an otherwise generally quiet "odd-year" election. Heading a list of nine proposals to change the state constitution, they called for:

1. A half-billion-dollar bond issue to finance arterial highway building from road revenues in 10 years, instead of about 20 years under pay-as-you-go plans.

2. A state board of education empowered to pick a state superintendent of schools, who now is appointed by the governor as head of the department of education.

The other proposed amendments dealt with obsolete sections of the constitution. Majority approval of each is needed for adoption.

Conditioned on favorable weather, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown forecast a total of 2¼ million votes.

The state's chief election official added 25,000 to an earlier prediction upon receiving reports of mounting interest in contests for offices in some of Northeastern Ohio's more populous areas.

Brown estimated that some 5½ million Ohioans are eligible.

A total of 1,956,835 voted in 1951, the last previous election without presidential or state office candidates. But Brown said the total was bound to go higher this year and gave these reasons:

Most Ohioans voting in last year's big presidential election still are eligible to vote tomorrow; the state population has grown in the past year; a number of communities have reported increased voter registration.

The total Ohio vote in 1952 presidential election was 3,749,828. Voting in the "odd - year" elections customarily falls below the even-year elections. But it reached a total of 2,303,860 in 1949 when Ohioans approved the sale of colored oleo and a shift from the party-column election ballot to the office-type ballot. The office-type ballot groups candidates for an office together regardless of party.

Trucking, commercial and other business interests campaigned widely this year in support of the highway bond issue.

They said it was needed to build main highways that could handle the present heavy volume of traffic. They said the state could not catch up with pay-as-you-go plans.

Education and parent groups campaigned for the state school board. They said it would improve the education system and rid it of political pressures.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche opposed both proposals. He and various engineers say pay-as-you-go highway building was better than pledging future revenues from gasoline and trucks to speed construction. The last Legislature earmarked new road revenues for arterial highway construction.

And the governor said a state education board would result in more politics, not less, in school affairs. He also said the board's superintendent of schools would be "insulated" more than ever from voters.

Voter approval of the highway bond issue would require the General Assembly to return in session next January to get the highway speedup program underway.

And the education board proposal, if approved, would require the Legislature to determine the method of selecting members.

Political Trend To Be Studied

New Jersey, Virginia, Gotham Polls Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Observers anxious about which way the political winds are blowing will be holding up fingers tomorrow in the directions of New Jersey, Virginia and New York City.

New Jersey and Virginia elect governors. There is also a special House election in New Jersey's 6th District. New York picks a new mayor, as do a number of other cities, including Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Little Rock.

In no case, perhaps, is there a clear-cut test of the popularity of the Eisenhower administration because of the many state and local issues involved. But the results will be closely watched, particularly in the wake of the upset Democratic victory in a Wisconsin election three weeks ago.

In brief, this is the picture:

New Jersey — Republican Gov. Paul Troast opposes Robert B. Meyner for governor. Both are relatively unknown politically. Troast is chairman of the authority which built the New Jersey Turnpike; he has never run for office before.

MEYNER MADE an unsuccessful bid for the State Senate in 1951.

In the 6th District, Democrat Harrison A. Williams Jr. is running there against Republican George F. Hetfield. Rep. Clifford Case, a Republican, resigned to create the vacancy.

Virginia—Democrats voice confidence they will hold the governorship in the face of the first determined GOP campaign in a quarter of a century. Theodore Dalton's Democratic opponent, backed by the regular state organization headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is former Rep. Thomas B. Stanley.

New York City — There are three major candidates:

Harold Riegelman, Republican, former acting postmaster of the city; Robert F. Wagner Jr., Democrat, Manhattan borough president; Rudolph Halley, Liberal, City Council president. Wagner is generally conceded to have the edge. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri lost the Democratic nomination to Wagner.

Spanish Bases To Get A-Bombs

MADRID (AP) — The U. S. Air Force eventually will have supplies of atomic bombs stored in Spain for use against "a common enemy" U. S. Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott said here today.

Talbott said an atomic base for the Strategic Air Force will be established only with the approval of the Spanish government.

Any use of these atomic weapons by the Spanish Air Force would be the result of negotiations between the two governments, he said, emphasizing that a Spanish use of these weapons is not in the picture at the present time."

Jenner Report Distribution Being Aided

WASHINGTON (AP)—Private individuals and organizations are helping the Senate internal security subcommittee to finance free distribution of its report on "Interlocking Subversion in Government Departments."

A spokesman for the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said today he could not name the donors nor say how much they have contributed to pay for printing copies of the 50-page report.

However, figures he gave indicated that the printing of more than 85,000 copies has been privately financed.

The report was published late in August after hearings into the way Communist agents infiltrated the executive and legislative branches of the government.

To date the subcommittee has distributed 111,000 copies.

In addition, the report caught the fancy of the Republican National Committee. A spokesman said it had purchased 50,000 copies and has sent them to party leaders throughout the country — "even down to the county level."

In the report, the internal security subcommittee concluded that Soviet agents have carried on a successful and important penetration of the government, from the lower tanks to top-level policy posts, and that "this penetration has not been fully exposed."

7 Regional Conservation Offices Closed

Secretary Ignores Protests, Says Ike Approves Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Benson today ordered that his controversial reorganization plan for the Agriculture Department be put into immediate effect.

Benson told a news conference President Eisenhower approved of his action.

The plan will abolish seven unidentified regional offices of the Soil Conservation Service and place greater responsibility on state conservation offices for carrying out conservation programs.

Outlined on Oct. 13, the plan had stirred bitter opposition.

Some congressmen had requested Benson delay putting the plan into operation until after Congress had a chance to look it over.

Only last week, Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) announced a House government operations subcommittee would conduct hearings this month on the plan.

Bender asked that Benson delay the plan until after the hearings.

Benson was asked at his news conference whether he had satisfied the Republican members of Congress who had suggested he hold up on the plan.

THE SECRETARY said most of the lawmakers who had entered the matter had done so on the basis of information only from his critics.

The agriculture secretary said opposition to the organization plan came from one group, the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts.

He said "certain officers" of this organization had issedu "misleading and unfounded" statements and in some cases had made "falsehoods" about purposes of the reorganization plan.

Critics have contended the plan would destroy the Soil Conservation Service.

Benson said the "principal area of complaint" resulted from the proposal to change the field organization by eliminating seven regional offices.

"I am confident that the great majority of soil conservation workers and the members of the boards

Adenauer Bloc Given Control In Elections

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's "Hamburg bloc" uprooted the Socialists today from their stronghold here in Hamburg state elections which also steeled the federal government's hand for pushing through its pro-Western policies.

Complete official returns from yesterday's voting gave the bloc—Christian Democrats, Free Democrats, the Germany party and the Refugee party—62 of the state Parliament's 120 seats. The voters also ousted the Socialist state governor, Minister President Max Brauer, in favor of an Adenauer man who will have the power to appoint the state's three representatives to the upper house of the federal parliament.

Those appointments will give Adenauer's coalition the two-thirds majority it needs in the Bundesrat, the federal upper house, to get parliamentary approval of plans to rearm Western Germany and ally her closely with West Europe's defense setup. The coalition already controls a two-thirds majority in the lower house, the Bundestag.

The hotly contested election brought out 81 per cent of Hamburg's million and a quarter eligible voters and gave the Hamburg bloc 503,997 votes, or 50 per cent of the total. The Socialists, who have been in power in Hamburg since 1945, were close behind with 455,372 votes—45.2 per cent. The Communists won only 3.2 per cent of the total ballots.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Benson said today mail received by the Agriculture Department since a caravan of cattlemen came here last week is running 25 to 1 against cattle price supports.

The caravan, sponsored by the National Farmers Union had pleaded for direct price supports.

Benson also said reports from cattle markets in recent days showed considerable improvement in prices of lower grade cattle.

Ohioan To Get Life Sentence

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Robert K. Stober of Ada, Ohio will be sentenced to life in prison Thursday for the murder of a New Orleans liquor store operator.

Stober was convicted Saturday night of murder without capital punishment. The life sentence is mandatory.

The jury considered the case two and one-half hours before returning the guilty verdict against the 20-year-old Stober.

The store operator, 53-year-old George Fremin, was killed in an attempted robbery in his store.

AFL Sees Chance For CIO Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL said today there is "a definite possibility" of unity with the CIO but not with John L. Lewis because, "Good Lord, he's the fellow who split the AFL."

Meany said that Lewis "says every once in a while that there can be no unity without the miners. That's baloney. We can have a lot of unity without the miners. I'm not saying that the miners wouldn't be in. There won't be any decision made not to let them in."

Hidden Factors Carry Weight In City Voting

Major community problems to some degree will be factors to sway the tide when Circleville voters go to the polls Tuesday, but a variety of hidden currents—some political and some personal—will determine results of the two city contests.

Questions linked directly or indirectly with the city's expansion program have been the most frequently mentioned in pre-election statements by candidates in the two races— for mayor and for councilman of the fourth ward. Less important matters on the surface of community affairs also have figured in some of the public claims and compliments.

Far more powerful in setting the final tally, however, will be many other things the candidates wouldn't talk about for publication.

Candidates in the contest for councilman of the fourth ward—Republican Jack Heeter and Boyd Horn, Democrat incumbent—have been more outspoken than the two mayoralty aspirants, Dr. Robert E. Hedges, Republican, and Councilman John Robinson, Democrat.

THE CUSTOMARY pushing and pulling in politics - beneath-the-surface has been evident with the approach of the elections. The usual quota of pre-election promises has been reported and, in some cases, admitted. In at least one case pre-voting assurance appears to be linked to one of the jobs in the municipal court system, due to start here Jan. 1.

Strange allies have been claimed in and around City Hall, and it appeared voting will have little respect for party lines under the pressure of strictly local matters. In public statements candidates have indicated some of their views as follows:

Hedges — Favors expansion "as long as we don't forget the people of Circleville." Claims Council has been "stalling" on bypass efforts. Warns that "politics" must be kept out of the city "utility department." Opposes any "consideration" of a city in-

Julius, Dorothy Silent On Her Hubby's Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Julius La Rosa and the woman he says he loves, Dorothy McGuire, are maintaining strict silence on latest developments concerning her husband, Sgt. John Henry Brown.

La Rosa's managers said last night he had "absolutely no comment" to make on the Army's refusal to let Brown return to the United States from Korea on emergency leave.

When Miss McGuire arrived at La Guardia Field last night from a weekend visit with her parents in Miamisburg, Ohio, she said:

"I don't want to answer any questions."

In Miamisburg, her father, Asa C. McGuire, said she "just came home for a weekend" and that they "didn't even talk" about her marital status.

The romance between the two entertainers, who worked together on the Arthur Godfrey radio and television programs, was reported by La Rosa's manager in the furor following Godfrey's firing of La Rosa two weeks ago. Miss McGuire has yet to confirm or deny the reports.

La Rosa, 23, says he plans to marry Miss McGuire, 22, as soon as legal and religious obstacles could be cleared away. He is a Roman Catholic and she is not. Her mother is a Protestant minister.

Brown said late last week he was hoping for a leave in order to see Miss McGuire, "talk to her and then decide what to do." He added that whatever he decides "will be for the benefit" of her happiness.

2¼ Million Ballots Expected To Be Cast In Ohio Tomorrow

COLUMBUS (AP)—Candidates for city, village and township offices in Ohio wound up their election campaigns today and sat back to await results.

Voters tomorrow will give them their answers by marking preferences on ballots at polling places open from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

They also will decide on school board members and pass on some 1,400 local bond issues, tax levies and other questions, most of them dealing with school matters. A dozen communities will vote on wet-dry questions.

Only two proposals commanded statewide interest in an otherwise generally quiet "odd-year" election. Heading a list of nine proposals to change the state constitution, they called for:

1. A half-billion-dollar bond issue to finance arterial highway building from road revenues in 10 years, instead of about 20 years under pay-as-you-go plans.

2. A state board of education empowered to pick a state superintendent of schools, who now is appointed by the governor as head of the department of education.

The other proposed amendments dealt with obsolete sections of the constitution. Majority approval of each is needed for adoption.

Conditioned on favorable weather, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown forecast a total of 2¼ million votes.

The state's chief election official added 25,000 to an earlier prediction upon receiving reports of mounting interest in contests for offices in some of Northeastern Ohio's more populous areas.

Brown estimated that some 5½ million Ohioans are eligible.

A total of 1,956,835 voted in 1951, the last previous election without presidential or state office candidates. But Brown said the total was bound to go higher this year and gave these reasons:

Most Ohioans voting in last year's big presidential election still are eligible to vote tomorrow; the state population has grown in the past year; a number of communities have reported increased voter registration.

The total Ohio vote in 1952 presidential election was 3,749,828. Voting in the "odd - year" elections customarily falls below the even-year elections. But it reached a total of 2,303,860 in 1949 when Ohioans approved the sale of colored oleo and a shift from the party-column election ballot to the office-type ballot. The office-type ballot groups candidates for an office together regardless of party.

Trucking, commercial and other business interests campaigned widely this year in support of the highway bond issue.

They said it was needed to build main highways that could handle the present heavy volume of traffic. They said the state could not catch up with pay-as-you-go plans.

Education and parent groups campaigned for the state school board. They said it would improve the education system and rid it of political pressures.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche opposed both proposals. He and various engineers say pay-as-you-go highway building was better than pledging future revenues from gasoline and trucks to speed construction. The last Legislature earmarked new road revenues for arterial highway construction.

And the governor said a state education board would result in more politics, not less, in school affairs. He also said the board's superintendent of schools would be "insulated" more than ever from voters.

Voter approval of the highway bond issue would require the General Assembly to return in session next January to get the highway speedup program underway.

And the education board proposal, if approved, would require the Legislature to determine the method of selecting members.

Political Trend To Be Studied

New Jersey, Virginia, Gotham Polls Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Observers anxious about which way the political winds are blowing will be holding up fingers tomorrow in the directions of New Jersey, Virginia and New York City.

New Jersey and Virginia elect governors. There is also a special House election in New Jersey's 6th District. New York picks a new mayor, as do a number of other cities, including Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Little Rock.

In no case, perhaps, is there a clear-cut test of the popularity of the Eisenhower administration because of the many state and local issues involved. But the results will be closely watched, particularly in the wake of the upset Democratic victory in a Wisconsin election three weeks ago.

In brief, this is the picture:

New Jersey — Republican Gov. Paul Troast opposes Robert B. Meyner for governor. Both are relatively unknown politically. Troast is chairman of the authority which built the New Jersey Turnpike; he has never run for office before.

MEYNER MADE an unsuccessful bid for the State Senate in 1951.

In the 6th District, Democrat Harrison A. Williams Jr. is running there against Republican George F. Hetfield. Rep. Clifford Case, a Republican, resigned to create the vacancy.

Virginia—Democrats voice confidence they will hold the governorship in the face of the first determined GOP campaign in a quarter of a century. Theodore Dalton's Democratic opponent, backed by the regular state organization headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is former Rep. Thomas B. Stanley.

New York City — There are three major candidates:

Harold Riegelman, Republican, former acting postmaster of the city; Robert F. Wagner Jr., Democrat, Manhattan borough president; Rudolph Halley, Liberal, City Council president. Wagner is generally conceded to have the edge. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri lost the Democratic nomination to Wagner.

Spanish Bases To Get A-Bombs

MADRID (AP) — The U. S. Air Force eventually will have supplies of atomic bombs stored in Spain for use against "a common enemy" U. S. Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott said here today.

Talbott said an atomic base for the Strategic Air Force will be established only with the approval of the Spanish government.

Any use of these atomic weapons by the Spanish Air Force would be the result of negotiations between the two governments, he said, emphasizing that a Spanish use of these weapons is not in the picture at the present time."

Jenner Report Distribution Being Aided

WASHINGTON (AP)—Private individuals and organizations are helping the Senate internal security subcommittee to finance free distribution of its report on "Interlocking Subversion in Government Departments."

A spokesman for the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said today he could not name the donors nor say how much they have contributed to pay for printing copies of the 50-page report.

However, figures he gave indicated that the printing of more than 85,000 copies has been privately financed.

The report was published late in August after hearings into the way Communist agents infiltrated the executive and legislative branches of the government.

To date the subcommittee has distributed 111,000 copies.

In addition, the report caught the fancy of the Republican National Committee. A spokesman said it had purchased 50,000 copies and has sent them to party leaders throughout the country — "even down to the county level."

In the report, the internal security subcommittee concluded that Soviet agents have carried on a successful and important penetration of the government, from the lower tanks to top-level policy posts, and that "this penetration has not been fully exposed."

7 Regional Conservation Offices Closed

Secretary Ignores Protests, Says Ike Approves Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Benson today ordered that his controversial reorganization plan for the Agriculture Department be put into immediate effect.

Benson told a news conference President Eisenhower approved of his action.

The plan will abolish seven unidentified regional offices of the Soil Conservation Service and place greater responsibility on state conservation offices for carrying out conservation programs.

Outlined on Oct. 13, the plan had stirred bitter opposition.

Some congressmen had requested Benson delay putting the plan into operation until after Congress had a chance to look it over.

Only last week, Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) announced a House government operations subcommittee would conduct hearings this month on the plan.

Bender asked that Benson delay the plan until after the hearings.

Benson was asked at his news conference whether he had satisfied the Republican members of Congress who had suggested he hold up on the plan.

THE SECRETARY said most of the lawmakers who had entered the matter had done so on the basis of information only from his critics.

The agriculture secretary said opposition to the organization plan came from one group, the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts.

He said "certain officers" of this organization had issedu "misleading and unfounded" statements and in some cases had made "falsehoods" about purposes of the reorganization plan.

Critics have contended the plan would destroy the Soil Conservation Service.

Benson said the "principal area of complaint" resulted from the proposal to change the field organization by eliminating seven regional offices.

"I am confident that the great majority of soil conservation workers and the members of the boards

Adenauer Bloc Given Control In Elections

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's "Hamburg bloc" uprooted the Socialists today from their stronghold here in Hamburg state elections which also steeled the federal government's hand for pushing through its pro-Western policies.

Complete official returns from yesterday's voting gave the bloc—Christian Democrats, Free Democrats, the Germany party and the Refugee party—62 of the state Parliament's 120 seats. The voters also ousted the Socialist state governor, Minister President Max Brauer, in favor of an Adenauer man who will have the power to appoint the state's three representatives to the upper house of the federal parliament.

Those appointments will give Adenauer's coalition the two-thirds majority it needs in the Bundesrat, the federal upper house, to get parliamentary approval of plans to rearm Western Germany and ally her closely with West Europe's defense setup. The coalition already controls a two-thirds majority in the lower house, the Bundestag.

The hotly contested election brought out 81 per cent of Hamburg's million and a quarter eligible voters and gave the Hamburg bloc 503,997 votes, or 50 per cent of the total. The Socialists, who have been in power in Hamburg since 1945, were close behind with 455,372 votes—45.2 per cent. The Communists won only 3.2 per cent of the total ballots.

were insisting on making the broadcasts. The Indians said previous Red broadcasts had been too exciting to the POWs and said they do not have the manpower to control any threatening situations that might arise.

Although there were no interviews Monday, tension ran high in the neutral zone stockades after Indian guard troops shot down a charging Chinese prisoner, and 21 Chinese and Koreans asked to go home in one of the largest single day's switches to the Red fold.

The prisoner was killed while the Indians were investigating reports of a murder of a POW in Chinese Compound 28 on Oct. 3.

The Indians said two of the group were POWs beaten Sunday in Compound 28 and six were potential witnesses in the murder investigation. Thirteen of the prisoners came in a group.

All but the six witnesses were returned to the Reds in a ceremony Monday afternoon. On meeting Communist newsmen, they told lurid stories of hangings, knifings, clubbings, burnings and cannibalism in the compounds.

Unemployment Unit Still Being Moved

The bureau of unemployment compensation had an important announcement Monday for those who have business with the agency. Another important notice will be issued later in the week.

The bureau, which closed its S. Pickaway St. offices, will have a man in City Council chambers in City Hall next Friday to transact business. However, this arrangement will be for next Friday only. Council has ordered the bureau to stop using its room after that day.

Spokesmen for the agency said they hope to have other quarters rented before the end of this week, and another announcement on the new office will be made. Business this week, however, will be in City Hall.

of soil conservation districts appreciate the sincerity of our purpose to advance soil conservation," Benson said.

Benson said he had been "delighted" with approval given the reorganization plan by agricultural leaders and groups other than the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts.

HE SAID THE plan had been discussed thoroughly with congressional committees, farm organization, commodity groups and others.

Features of the reorganization program include:

Regrouping the various research bureaus in the present Agricultural Research Administration into an integrated agricultural research service.

Establishing an agricultural marketing service which will absorb a major part of the marketing, research and service functions of the Production and Marketing Administration and many of the functions of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Establishing a commodity stabilization service which will carry on adjustment and other functions formerly handled by the production and marketing administration such as acreage allotments and marketing quotas, and carry on price support operations of the Commodity Credit Corp.

RETAINING the present community, county and state farmer committees to carry out the programs of the commodity stabilization service and the agricultural conservation program in the field.

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Langer said he is "wholeheartedly opposed" to any move to drop Benson from the Cabinet, as demanded by his North Dakota Senate colleague and others.

Sen. Young (R-ND) has called repeatedly for Benson's replacement, saying that if Eisenhower retains the secretary the GOP will face a big handicap in next year's campaign for control of Congress.

Langer said he plans to call upon Benson to present a petition from 500 North Dakota farmers asking for government action to bolster sagging cattle prices. When he does so, the Senator added, he will urge Benson not to yield to suggestions that he resign.

Eisenhower has warmly defended Benson, and has given no indication he wants a new agriculture secretary.

Young renewed his criticism of the secretary yesterday, but Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) termed the secretary "one of the most conscientious and capable public servants we've ever had in government."

Langer put it this way:

"I am wholeheartedly opposed to Benson's resignation. The big packing interests would like nothing better. The reason is that if Mr. Benson is made the goat, as so many predict he will be, the President will have to name a replacement."

* * *

AND IF THAT happens, Langer continued, Benson's successor "would say to the farmers that it would take him six months to get acquainted with the job."

Young said no Midwestern Republican running for re-election to Congress next year would "want to tie himself to Secretary Benson."

Young said Eisenhower had "a very good farm program" in last year's campaign, but that as soon as Benson entered the Cabinet he began to "do exactly the opposite" of what Eisenhower had promised.

"He isn't a practical agriculture man," Young said of Benson. "He has the worst possible approach to the farmers. I think at least two thirds of the farmers are opposed to Secretary Benson, that is, those west of Ohio."

Aiken, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, predicted Benson will remain as secretary "for a long time." He added that the secretary has taken all the steps to bolster the farm economy that were possible,

Five Persons Injured In Two County Crashes Last Weekend

Five persons suffered minor injuries last weekend in two auto accidents on Pickaway County highways.

First of the personal injury crashes happened at about 7 p. m. Saturday on Route 23, about one mile south of the Pickaway-Franklin County line.

Deputy Carl White said an auto operated south by Roy Stover, 41, of Lockbourne Route 1, was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Robert Harris, 26, of Chillicothe. White said the Stover car was making a left turn.

Injured were Stover, who suffered an injured right leg; and his daughter, Jean Stover, 17, who suffered an injured neck and back.

HARRIS LATER was fined $10 and costs before the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for having failed to stop in an assured clear distance.

The second crash happened at about 6:50 p. m. Sunday at Routes 22 and 104 west of Circleville, where three motorists have lost their lives in the last two weeks.

Deputy White said an auto operated west on Route 22 by Frank Teets, 53, of New Holland, was struck on its right side by an auto operated south on Route 104 by Ray Pauley, 52, of Charleston, W. Va.

Both autos veered toward the southwest corner of the intersection from the force of the impact.

Injured were Jake Teets, 53, who suffered two cracked ribs; Pauley, who had a bruised nose; and Carl Pauley, 52, who suffered a lacerated chin and chest injuries.

Pauley later was haled before the court of Magistrate Oscar Root and fined $15 and costs for failing to yield the right of way at the intersection.

Store Window Is Broken To End Halloween

Pickaway County officials heaved a sigh of relief as this year's Halloween activities came to an end at midnight Saturday.

But the final night of the Halloween observance was marked by another untoward act of vandalism.

The sheriff's department said youths in Tarlton drove past Mack Wolf's food market Saturday night and hurled an ear of corn through a large plate glass window. The damage to the window, which measured 7x4 feet, was estimated at about $100.

This year's Halloween activities were particularly vicious, both in Circleville and the surrounding rural areas.

CITY POLICE Monday still were tracing down clues in an attempt to round up a gang which smashed the windows from three southend buildings last week.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said investigation has been going slowly, but that his department may now have a line on the culprits.

In an effort to stem the wave of destruction, the sheriff's department had stationed several special deputies throughout the county during the nights of Halloween week.

Still, Sheriff Charles Radcliff said this year was the worst he could remember in the way of property destruction.

Pumpkin Show Of 1910 Lasted One Whole Week

Circleville's 1953 Pumplin Show was judged hugely successful and drew a record number of fun-seekers to the city's streets for the four-day festival.

But while memories will linger long in the minds of folks who came here to enjoy this year's Show, there still should be a number of persons who remember an especially huge Pumpkin Show in 1910—when Circleville city was celebrating its centennial.

Clarence Rushing of Circleville Route 1 has found in his files a souvenir postal card issued at the 1910 Pumpkin Show by The Union Herald, which later became known as The Circleville Herald.

The special souvenir postcard, bearing a yellow pumpkin and the date, announces the "Centennial and Pumpkin Show" and gives the dates for the 1910 observance.

Instead of the regular four-day festival, which has been observed now for many years, the 1910 centennial Show lasted a full seven days—October 2 through Oct. 8.

come tax. Advocates renewed efforts to establish a Southend playground.

Robinson — Issued brief, general praise for work of police department under Chief Elmer Merriman. Silent on annexation in pre-election statements but supported it in Council debate. Silent on bypass recently but backed the plan in Council. Favors new effort to extend city water line to Lowery Lane.

Heeter — Promises to adopt whatever stand people of fourth ward want on bypass. Claims it would not be in city's interests to neglect either annexation or improvement of city services, urging both in "simultaneous" program. Advocates tighter restrictions on sale of beer to teen-agers and favors study of local juvenile delinquency problem.

Horn — Insists improvement of city services to sub-standard areas must come before annexation. Strong booster for bypass. Willing to join any new effort to bring city water to Lowery Lane. Warns jevenile delinquency problem continues to grow here. Claims "important details" haven't been publicly explained in city-county jail contract.

No organized opposition has been apparent for the proposed county-wide levy of three-tenths mill for five years to pay for treatment of the county's tuberculosis patients in hospitals. Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, indicated belief the levy was set too high, but declined to continue his objections in the face of official county estimates.

The city of Circleville also has a direct interest in a proposed levy to be placed before the voters of Circleville and Washington Townships. If approved, the levy would enable the townships to purchase a new fire truck and continue their firefighting partnership with the city under a revised contract.

19 American POWs 'Afraid' To Come Home

were insisting on making the broadcasts. The Indians said previous Red broadcasts had been too exciting to the POWs and said they do not have the manpower to control any threatening situations that might arise.

Although there were no interviews Monday, tension ran high in the neutral zone stockades after Indian guard troops shot down a charging Chinese prisoner, and 21 Chinese and Koreans asked to go home in one of the largest single day's switches to the Red fold.

The prisoner was killed while the Indians were investigating reports of a murder of a POW in Chinese Compound 28 on Oct. 3.

The Indians said two of the group were POWs beaten Sunday in Compound 28 and six were potential witnesses in the murder investigation. Thirteen of the prisoners came in a group.

All but the six witnesses were returned to the Reds in a ceremony Monday afternoon. On meeting Communist newsmen, they told lurid stories of hangings, knifings, clubbings, burnings and cannibalism in the compounds.

Unemployment Unit Still Being Moved

The bureau of unemployment compensation had an important announcement Monday for those who have business with the agency. Another important notice will be issued later in the week.

The bureau, which closed its S. Pickaway St. offices, will have a man in City Council chambers in City Hall next Friday to transact business. However, this arrangement will be for next Friday only. Council has ordered the bureau to stop using its room after that day.

Spokesmen for the agency said they hope to have other quarters rented before the end of this week, and another announcement on the new office will be made. Business this week, however, will be in City Hall.

of soil conservation districts appreciate the sincerity of our purpose to advance soil conservation," Benson said.

Benson said he had been "delighted" with approval given the reorganization plan by agricultural leaders and groups other than the National Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts.

HE SAID THE plan had been discussed thoroughly with congressional committees, farm organization, commodity groups and others.

Features of the reorganization program include:

Regrouping the various research bureaus in the present Agricultural Research Administration into an integrated agricultural research service.

Establishing an agricultural marketing service which will absorb a major part of the marketing, research and service functions of the Production and Marketing Administration and many of the functions of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Establishing a commodity stabilization service which will carry on adjustment and other functions formerly handled by the production and marketing administration such as acreage allotments and marketing quotas, and carry on price support operations of the Commodity Credit Corp.

RETAINING the present community, county and state farmer committees to carry out the programs of the commodity stabilization service and the agricultural conservation program in the field.

Meanwhile, Republican Sen. Langer said he is "wholeheartedly opposed" to any move to drop Benson from the Cabinet, as demanded by his North Dakota Senate colleague and others.

Sen. Young (R-ND) has called repeatedly for Benson's replacement, saying that if Eisenhower retains the secretary the GOP will face a big handicap in next year's campaign for control of Congress.

Langer said he plans to call upon Benson to present a petition from 500 North Dakota farmers asking for government action to bolster sagging cattle prices. When he does so, the Senator added, he will urge Benson not to yield to suggestions that he resign.

Eisenhower has warmly defended Benson, and has given no indication he wants a new agriculture secretary.

Young renewed his criticism of the secretary yesterday, but Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) termed the secretary "one of the most conscientious and capable public servants we've ever had in government."

Langer put it this way:

"I am wholeheartedly opposed to Benson's resignation. The big packing interests would like nothing better. The reason is that if Mr. Benson is made the goat, as so many predict he will be, the President will have to name a replacement."

* * *

AND IF THAT happens, Langer continued, Benson's successor "would say to the farmers that it would take him six months to get acquainted with the job."

Young said no Midwestern Republican running for re-election to Congress next year would "want to tie himself to Secretary Benson."

Young said Eisenhower had "a very good farm program" in last year's campaign, but that as soon as Benson entered the Cabinet he began to "do exactly the opposite" of what Eisenhower had promised.

"He isn't a practical agriculture man," Young said of Benson. "He has the worst possible approach to the farmers. I think at least two thirds of the farmers are opposed to Secretary Benson, that is, those west of Ohio."

Aiken, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, predicted Benson will remain as secretary "for a long time." He added that the secretary has taken all the steps to bolster the farm economy that were possible,

Five Persons Injured In Two County Crashes Last Weekend

Five persons suffered minor injuries last weekend in two auto accidents on Pickaway County highways.

First of the personal injury crashes happened at about 7 p. m. Saturday on Route 23, about one mile south of the Pickaway-Franklin County line.

Deputy Carl White said an auto operated south by Roy Stover, 41, of Lockbourne Route 1, was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Robert Harris, 26, of Chillicothe. White said the Stover car was making a left turn.

Injured were Stover, who suffered an injured right leg; and his daughter, Jean Stover, 17, who suffered an injured neck and back.

HARRIS LATER was fined $10 and costs before the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for having failed to stop in an assured clear distance.

The second crash happened at about 6:50 p. m. Sunday at Routes 22 and 104 west of Circleville, where three motorists have lost their lives in the last two weeks.

Deputy White said an auto operated west on Route 22 by Frank Teets, 53, of New Holland, was struck on its right side by an auto operated south on Route 104 by Ray Pauley, 52, of Charleston, W. Va.

Both autos veered toward the southwest corner of the intersection from the force of the impact.

Injured were Jake Teets, 53, who suffered two cracked ribs; Pauley, who had a bruised nose; and Carl Pauley, 52, who suffered a lacerated chin and chest injuries.

Pauley later was haled before the court of Magistrate Oscar Root and fined $15 and costs for failing to yield the right of way at the intersection.

Store Window Is Broken To End Halloween

Pickaway County officials heaved a sigh of relief as this year's Halloween activities came to an end at midnight Saturday.

But the final night of the Halloween observance was marked by another untoward act of vandalism.

The sheriff's department said youths in Tarlton drove past Mack Wolf's food market Saturday night and hurled an ear of corn through a large plate glass window. The damage to the window, which measured 7x4 feet, was estimated at about $100.

This year's Halloween activities were particularly vicious, both in Circleville and the surrounding rural areas.

CITY POLICE Monday still were tracing down clues in an attempt to round up a gang which smashed the windows from three southend buildings last week.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said investigation has been going slowly, but that his department may now have a line on the culprits.

In an effort to stem the wave of destruction, the sheriff's department had stationed several special deputies throughout the county during the nights of Halloween week.

Still, Sheriff Charles Radcliff said this year was the worst he could remember in the way of property destruction.

Pumpkin Show Of 1910 Lasted One Whole Week

Circleville's 1953 Pumplin Show was judged hugely successful and drew a record number of fun-seekers to the city's streets for the four-day festival.

But while memories will linger long in the minds of folks who came here to enjoy this year's Show, there still should be a number of persons who remember an especially huge Pumpkin Show in 1910—when Circleville city was celebrating its centennial.

Clarence Rushing of Circleville Route 1 has found in his files a souvenir postal card issued at the 1910 Pumpkin Show by The Union Herald, which later became known as The Circleville Herald.

The special souvenir postcard, bearing a yellow pumpkin and the date, announces the "Centennial and Pumpkin Show" and gives the dates for the 1910 observance.

Instead of the regular four-day festival, which has been observed now for many years, the 1910 centennial Show lasted a full seven days—October 2 through Oct. 8.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another day, say eight years ago when the Japanese surrendered, the story would have been in headlines and national fury would have descended on Washington officialdom.

Not now. When the story about Japan's rearming appeared the other day it got some attention. There was no excitement. Most people probably thought it natural and inevitable.

In this upside-down world where old foes are today's friends and old allies today's enemies, the American mood has changed. The American mind accepts the idea you do what you can to save your life.

The new enemies, the old allies—Russia and China—set the rules. In this game of table stakes, where the chips are survival, softness is the second best hand.

The story said the State Department had agreed with Japan on the need for rebuilding her land, sea and air forces, and the United States offered to help.

Strangely, remembering their prewar power drive, the Japanese showed reluctance about rearming. They were stripped to the bone in the surrender. Their only armed force now is 110,000 police.

This country wants Japan to build up quickly a military force of 350,000. A "self-defense" force, it was called, against Communist attack. The wording was carefully chosen, since the Japanese constitution adopted after the war bans major rearmament. The Japanese reportedly took the position they could build up their ground force only to about 180,000 in the next three to five years unless they got much more economic assistance than is planned.

Japanese officials say the constitution may not have to be changed to permit creation of a "defense" force. But before the rearming of Japan starts, there are details to be worked out. It won't start tomorrow.

But that completes the cycle. This country's three big wartime foes—Germany, Italy, Japan—are now allied with the United States. Italy long ago was permitted to rearm, the United States has been pushing for Germany to do the same, and now Japan is being urged to do so.

This country has moved step by step as the pressure from communism became more intense and as each new step was taken the American public was hardly surprised. Each step was pretty much taken for granted.

Yet, because all the moves to build a steel wall around Russia are not taken at once, the general picture is apt to be blurred, since American diplomacy has to operate on two levels at the same time.

If this country could work out a peaceful settlement with Russia, there would be no need for the steel wall. The chance of settlement is dim.

So while the diplomats of Russia and the West dicker about conferences, split hairs in exchanges of notes, and damn each other in the United Nations, work on the wall continues.

A month ago the State Department announced agreement with Spain for building bases there from which American planes could retaliate if Russia began a war.

There are other bases on the Russian perimeter, and military alliances with countries on the edge of the Iron Curtain from the eastern Mediterranean to the North Atlantic.

Yet, the deal with Spain shows how far this country has been pushed. Only a few years ago this country wouldn't send an ambassador to Franco's Spain. American officials publicly condemned his dictatorship on moral grounds. There was no official talk of morality when the agreement on the bases was signed.

Yet there remains a question in the background:

Suppose events someday take a turn in which Germany and Japan become intensely militaristic again and break with the United States. What then? That problem will have to be handled if it arises. The problem now is Russia.

Boyle Opens Curtain On Broadway Rehearsal--Really A Show Itself

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A Broadway rehearsal often is as interesting as the show itself.

Want to see one? Well, let's go!

You clump up three flights of stairs in an old side street building and walk into a dingy rehearsal room. Its walls are rusty red, its windows dusty. In show business they don't put on the tinsel until the curtain goes up.

Little waves of sound ripple and break in chaos as a dozen actors run through their lines like magpies. Most are dressed as casually as if they were a bunch of high school kids at the beach.

See anyone you know? Oh, yes, those three glamorous girls, the Gabor sisters, Magda, Zsa Zsa and Eva. And that bouncing pigeon-chested, rubber-faced gal in the gray sweat shirt, blue jeans and red slippers, Martha Raye.

That fellow who looks like a piano mover, the one with the broken nose—could it be Rocky Graziano, the celebrated actor and ex-middleweight champ? It is.

They are all here for the rehearsal. They are relaxed as rubber bands now. The tension and tears will come later.

"Martha plays the long lost ugly duckling sister of the Gabor girls," explains a man leaning against the wall. "And Rocky is her boy friend. It's a scream."

Miss Ray bounces around the room like a tennis ball. She muffs a line, grimaces, the cast laughs.

"She puts out as much in rehearsals as she does on the show itself," says the man, "and when the show is over she always throws a big party for everybody in the cast. Everybody—not just the big shots."

In sweeps a stylish woman of well-preserved charm. This is Mama Gabor herself. Her three daughters rush over. The four erupt in Gaborese, a mixture of English, Hungarian, French and German intelligible only to themselves.

Someone else is playing the role of Mama Gabor in the show, but in five minutes mama is trying to take over. She tells the director that if the actress is going to really look like her she should wear a monocle. The director is polite but unconvinced.

Rocky Graziano wanders over. Mama Gabor, who wouldn't know him from Jack Dempsey, beckons imperiously and says:

"Where are the dress designs, Mr. Capone?"

Graziano looks stupefied, then snaps his fingers at a fellow holding the designs.

"Thank you, Mr. Capone," says Mama Gabor sweetly.

"She shouldn't call me that, I jump whenever I even hear that name," grumbled Rocky. "Anyway, I ask you—do I look like a dress designer?"

Rocky confides he finds acting easier than boxing, but that he still prefers fighting "on account I was born a fighter. It took me a half hour to learn how to act.

"I and Jake Lamotta did a little boxing the last time we played with Martha," he says, grinning, "and guess what? Two Broadway creeps tried to get me to throw the show."

He eyes the bounding figure of Miss Raye and adds admiringly:

"If she don't work, she gets sick. She's got energy to throw away. With the right training she'd of made a good pug."

But as we leave, Martha sits on the edge of a chair for a moment. She glances over at the three beautiful Gabor sisters chattering with their mother, and over her face there steals that wistful look that clowns and kings wear when they see something that they themselves may never be.

Kentuckian Still Eludes Police Posse

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. (AP)—Elusive Doyle Hart's hide-and-seek technique had Kentucky state police regrouping today to size up their month-old manhunt from a new angle.

A cordon of cops, 55 strong and armed to the teeth, currycombed 800 acres of rugged hills yesterday without finding the 38-year-old farmer accused of killing his wife early last month.

Afterward, Police Commissioner Charles C. Oldham said he would try "one last plan" to pull Hart out of hiding. He declined to say what the plan was.

Hart vanished into the wild timber country soon after Mrs. Hart, the mother of nine children, was shot to death Oct. 7.

Officers chose first to wait for him to come out on his own. He showed himself twice but became suspicious and returned to the bushes.

A 24-hour watch was set up when cold weather moved in, but freezing temperatures didn't flush the farmer either.

Finally, 100,000 leaflets promising the fugitive a fair trial were air-dropped on the area. Hart didn't budge.

Neither did he pay attention to pleas of two of his children carried into the forest through a sound truck's loudspeakers.

Yesterday's operation, by possemen carrying rifles and riot guns, was ordered in desperation. Heavy arms were deceed when it was reported Hart was armed with at least a gun and a pistol and would resist if found.

The day was spent shaking bushes, probing caves and searching buildings throughout the area. The caves and buildings were sprayed with tear gas before officers entered them. A police plane circled the fastness to aid in the hunt.

Hart's footprints were found. Also a place where he had slept, and, close-by, a crumpled surrender note. Evidence that he had obtained food from friends or other sources was detected.

But Hart himself didn't show.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another day, say eight years ago when the Japanese surrendered, the story would have been in headlines and national fury would have descended on Washington officialdom.

Not now. When the story about Japan's rearming appeared the other day it got some attention. There was no excitement. Most people probably thought it natural and inevitable.

In this upside-down world where old foes are today's friends and old allies today's enemies, the American mood has changed. The American mind accepts the idea you do what you can to save your life.

The new enemies, the old allies—Russia and China—set the rules. In this game of table stakes, where the chips are survival, softness is the second best hand.

The story said the State Department had agreed with Japan on the need for rebuilding her land, sea and air forces, and the United States offered to help.

Strangely, remembering their prewar power drive, the Japanese showed reluctance about rearming. They were stripped to the bone in the surrender. Their only armed force now is 110,000 police.

FATEFUL CHOICE

WHETHER TO RING THE United States with a radar moat is one of the nation's more immediate problems that is pressing for solution. Out of the rather guarded official debate on the issue in past months have emerged two main facts.

The first is that no such screen, no matter how thoroughly backed by guided missiles and fighter planes, would be foolproof. The second is its staggering cost of construction, variously estimated from $10 billion up.

If it were decided to go ahead with the screen, it would be acknowledgment of the traditional American attitude that the enemy gets in the first blow, by surprise or otherwise. If open hostilities should be declared to the finish, the warning network would have decreasing importance. Passive defense would give way to active sea and air patrols and the whole nervous apparatus of a nation at war.

There are many persons who believe that $10 billion would be a small price to pay for what might prove to be the difference between victory and defeat. They concede that some planes would get through with their lethal cargo, but American forces, forwarned by the screen, could swiftly activate retaliatory measures.

This could be crucially important in a strange, fierce world holocaust in which relatively few missiles might determine the outcome.

NEW ATOMIC RACE

U. S. AND RUSSIA CAN be expected to fight for leadership in the peacetime development of atomic energy as bitterly as the two nations have struggled for supremacy in the atomic arms race. This is the significance of the government's unexpectedly announced plan to build a full-scale industrial power reactor without further delay.

The urgency surrounding the project betokens belated recognition that in the titanic struggle between Communism and the West ultimate victory will lie with the system accomplishing the greatest economic good.

Use of cheap, plentiful atomic power will give naturally endowed nations an unbelievable degree of economic stability. Hence, by sharing the fruits of their labors with underprivileged peoples and elevating their living standards, they should win their allegiance.

This objective has long been implicit in America's attitude toward the under-developed nations of the world. But until now there has been no all-out urgency to get on with the work.

Shrewd students of the global struggle now see such an incentive taking shape. They see Russia taking full advantage of the fabulous gifts of atomic energy to overtake America's long held power advantage and to forge ahead as an industrial giant.

Those who formerly rejoiced over record crops now are depressed by the thought that it calls for tax subsidies.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It had to come sooner or later that the opposition to President Eisenhower would be concentrated on one of his Cabinet members. So the fight is being made on Ezra Taft Benson, not for what he has done but for what he is being suspected of proposing to recommend should be done.

For, actually, what are being enforced today are still the laws enacted in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

Perhaps herein lies one of the major defects of the Eisenhower Administration. The world does not stand still while serious men study important problems. The rain fails to fall at the right time no matter which Administration is in office.

Crops are plentiful or inadequate; cattle grow numerous or are hungry on the range with or without the consent of those who sit in high office.

Secretary Benson is one of the most competent men in this Administration. He inherited a sprawling, overstaffed, messily political department which requires reorganization. For nearly 20 years, the Department of Agriculture has been used to build a vast ppolitical machine, one of the objects of which was to influence votes.

Every effort made by Secrtary Benson to smash the machine naturally encounters resistance.

The principal opposition to Benson comes from his own party and is led by Congressman Clifford R. Hope of Kansas, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, and Senator Milton R. Young of North Dakota. No charge can be made by them that Ezra Taft Benson has destroyed the doctrine of parity of weakened it, because this he has not done.

The objection is that he intends to find a way to stop spending about $500,000 a day to keep prices for agricultural commodities high. The government now owns or has loans on approximately four billion dollars of agricultural commodities.

No one advocates an absolute reversion of the law of supply and demand because it is obvious that if farm products were suddenly to be without supports and without controls, prices would be so low that the farmers would go broke. The economic consequence of that would be that we would have another depression of a very serious nature. The social consequence would be that the farmer would be reduced to peonage, many of the farms falling into the hands of banks, insurance companies and large speculative landowners, with the farmers working their own places as tenants. Nobody wants that. Nobody advocates that.

On the other hand, it is uneconomic and immoral to spend $500,000 a day on food and other farm products, to be stored, to waste and rot and spoil. Somewhere in between is common sense. So some talk about flexible price supports instead of a rigid system. Others talk about a two-price system—one price for domestic consumption; another for export.

Some talk of a gradual reduction of parity, etc. The proposals are numerous, except that nobody dares to suggest a free market in which the law of supply and demand shall prevail.

A Glandular Disturbance Affecting Middle-Age Men

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

STRATEGIC location of the male prostate gland has made it an important factor in man's urinary system. It is placed next to the bladder and the urethra, the tube that leads from the bladder to the outside; therefore, anything that happens to the prostate is very likely to cause urinary symptoms.

This close relationship is unfortunate in men of middle age, as a slight, growing enlargement of the prostate gland often begins to occur about the age of fifty. It naturally brings reaction from the urinary system.

The First Symptom

The first symptom of a prostate gland disturbance is frequency of urination. The individual complains of getting up numerous times at night and has disturbing loss of control over his urinary flow.

A physician can usually tell whether the prostate gland is enlarged by doing a simple rectal examination. Of course, X-rays and special examinations are also made in order to prove that the prostate gland is the offender.

If prostate difficulty is allowed to progress, the urine may accumulate in the bladder, stretching the bladder wall and causing permanent weakness. The urine may also back off into the kidneys, if the condition is allowed to progress, and destroy parts of them.

A small number of the cases may be due to cancer. However, in most instances, the enlargement is of a non-cancerous nature and is due to an overgrowth of glandular and scar tissue.

There is no need for a man to suffer from the symptoms of prostate enlargement today. If he is given large doses of the antibiotic drugs to clear up any infection, the operation known as transurethral section usually can be performed with very little risk and most often gives a satisfactory cure.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

NANCY had wanted to see Dave Armstrong, too. She had thought about Dave half a dozen times that day. His new work was going along famously, according to reports that had come to her. Already he had received an advancement in his department.

It would have been nice to have Dave come to the house that evening. Nancy had half played with the idea all day that Dave and Lucy and she might go to a movie together, possibly stop at Joe Deutsch's cafe afterwards for a bite to eat. Joe's place was homey. They could find a table at the far end. They could talk and laugh and Nancy could try to catch the threads of her old life again. The life that she had been so ambitious to run away from, and which, now from the perspective of so few months, seemed to have a sweetness that she hadn't realized under the torment of worry over lack of money.

She had played with the idea of being with Lucy and Dave that evening and still the day had gone by without her having done anything about it.

Phil Stanley said he was going to count off the minutes. She had four minutes left. If she wasn't ready at the end of the five minutes he'd—

Nancy replied that he could stand there until Doomsday, she wasn't going to go with him. She knew now, that she was. Still it was a merry little game, Phil trying to look stern and she trying to look adamant.

Phil counted off another minute. He was tapping off the passing seconds with a well shod foot. Nancy watched his foot. Nice shoes, she thought. They probably cost a lot of money.

As much as she had earned in a week pounding a typewriter, perhaps.

Phil touched his tie, tugged at his collar. Nancy's eyes followed his hand. An imported tie, probably. From England. A tie could tell so much about a man.

He ran his hand over his hair. An aristocratic head . . . well groomed . . . clean, definite hairline against the white of his skin . . . Dave had a well shaped head, too . . . Dave was big and clean and . . . Dave had never paid more than ten dollars for a pair of—

Phil raised his eyes.

"What are you standing there dreaming about? You have one more minute."

The light in his eyes belied his threatening tone.

Nancy left to powder her nose. She stopped at the office to telephone that she wouldn't be home that evening.

Sam Sykes answered the 'phone. His voice gave Nancy a sickening feeling. Was he never going to find a job and get out of there?

The music of Benny Goodland's orchestra at the Club Madrid served Nancy as a good antidote to the sound of Sam Syke's voice. In Phil's car all the way out to the club-restaurant she could hear his voice. There was some note in it that she intuitively disliked. Sam and Moira had been at the Kelly home off and on for weeks now. Sometimes Sam said he had business out of town, but he always came back with indefinite stories about what the business was. Sometimes he had money to pay Mother Kelly for his and Moira's way, sometimes he had nothing but excuses to offer.

Moira had been pestering Nancy for a job as a model in the shop. Nancy hesitated, put her off, though Mrs. Eustis had mentioned several times that a striking looking girl with a good figure should be employed to display dresses. Moira fit these qualifications, but she had the drawback of being too gabby and inquisitive.

Nancy knew that Moira was a throwback to some Kelly who must have lived in the long ago. There was nobody in the whole present relationship quite like her. Certainly she couldn't see Sam Sykes in the light that Nancy saw him.

When they were seated at a table in the Club Madrid, Phil suggested a lobster dinner. He ordered the right wines, then stood up and said, "We dance, do we not?"

There he was again. Positive in act and statement, charmingly so, perhaps, but positive just the same. Nancy had experienced his charming positiveness before. She tried to decide whether she liked it very much or whether she didn't like it at all.

Phil had been charmingly positive when she had gone to Oconomowoc lake that day to iceboat. He had been positive, certainly, when in the snow isolated lodge he had twirled her around and she had found herself fast in his arms, his lips crushing against her eyes, her mouth, her throat.

He even had been positive when she had called him a beast and he had apologized and said she was right. He had been charmingly, overwhelmingly positive when he tempted her to go into the venture of a dress shop that day in the Pfister hotel lobby.

His positive enthusiasm had caught her when with low spirits, and still stinging under the poison of Linda Van Vliet's words, she had turned to the ads, "Help Wanted, Female."

Nancy danced with Phil and tried to think if positive was the word she really meant. It was something compelling, something born of the fact, she thought, that never in his life had he known what it was to be poor. He didn't know what the word dread meant.

Nancy, in her way of analyzing character, working out the puzzle of peoples' personalities, was so engrossed in the music that seemed to beat tempo with her thoughts, that she hardly heard what Phil was saying. He had said he'd give a dollar for her thoughts.

She said she was thinking of what the gossips might be saying.

"What gossips?"

"Any gossips. Evil, jealous, vicious-minded people. Don't you know any?"

"Can't say that I do."

Nancy was thinking how she might get Phil to mention Linda Van Vliet. She wondered if men ever had the intuition toward women that women had toward other women.

She wondered if Phil Stanley could sense the feline in Linda that she had sensed at that very first meeting in the Empire room, more so at the Colony Inn when Linda had so subtly given Nancy to understand that Nancy was a working girl, that Phil was a charming fellow, that Nancy no doubt had found him so, as so many girls had . . . "shall I say it? . . . to their regret."

The music stopped. The lobster was ready. Several waiters were hovering about their table. The host and owner of the Club Madrid was there to say good evening and to give a supervising glance at the table.

Now that Nancy had spoken of gossips and vicious-minded people, she found Linda Van Vliet's face and voice intruding themselves all during the meal. She felt that Linda must be in the club somewhere, that her cool, calculating eyes were observing her and Phil. She could hear Linda's poisonous, honey-laden voice . . . even girls can buy anything . . . even girls like you . . . the world hardly lifts an eyebrow at a man . . .

On the way back to town Phil remarked that he had left one of his driving gloves at the shop. Nancy said he could pick it up tomorrow. Phil said no, he wanted it tonight.

There he was again. His will against hers. They might be seen entering the shop together at a late hour.

"What would Mrs. Grundy say?" she asked.

"Mrs. Grundy, who's she, the janitress?"

Phil won.

How silent and eerie the shop, for all its bright furnishings, seemed at this hour. Phil found the glove.

"It's so quiet here, let's talk."

Phil grasped Nancy's hand, pulled her toward the chintz couch. She shook her hand free. She started to talk. She hardly knew what she was saying. Anything to distract his attention.

"You're a little devil, know it?"

Nancy stepped backward.

"Phil, stay there. I want to ask you something. Why have you done all this for me—this shop, everything—. You're supposed to be a notorious snob, and I, well I'm just Nancy Kelly from Cass street."

"Because you have more spirit in your little finger, than—"

He was holding both her hands now, crushing them until they hurt. There was desire in his dark eyes.

"Phil, once I told you that you were a beast."

He dropped her hands.

"I know, I know, redhead. I'm sorry."

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON — Tomorrow's special elections in several politically strategic sections of the country—New York, New Jersey, Virginia and California, as well as in local contests elsewhere—will furnish a field test of President Eisenhower's recent retreat from partisan Republicanism rather than of his accomplishments since he entered the White House.

The results may influence the future attitude of professionally active GOPsters toward him, including the party's leaders from top to bottom and the key legislative operators on Capitol Hill. It will determine whether the political family which he adopted with some hesitation and reluctance will accept and support him as one of their own. As of today, they are extremely skeptical and standoffish. They do not regard him as one of their kin, in view of his seeming indifference to principles and loyalties so dear and so traditional to them.

ISSUES—This reaction may be unfortunate and unfair to Eisenhower, because it is possible that neither his assumption of aloofness nor his handling of national and international problems will be a decisive factor in tomorrow's sporadic affairs.

The selection of a new mayor of New York, New Jersey and Virginia governors, and a few representatives, may be decided on the basis of local issues. With the national and international scene still so clouded and uncertain, most of the office-seekers on both sides have preferred to stick to a discussion of strictly local questions and personalities.

NO RECORD—Clinging to Ike's coattails is no guarantee of victory for a GOP entry because these appendages of the Presidential apparel are flying in the wind. He has as yet made no record that would serve as a successful platform. And only the more hardy Democrats would dare to revive the New Deal and Fair Deal as current issues.

The voters may take Ike at his word, literally and politically, even though they know that a Republican sweep would be welcomed at the White House.

PSYCHOLOGY—But the party bosses will not be charitable to the President, if tomorrow night's returns reflect a sharp recession from last November's high tides and hopes. Then they were congratulating themselves that the triumph of such a popular figure as Eisenhower would keep them in power for an indefinite period, possibly as long as the Roosevelt-Truman regime.

It is the nature of politicians everywhere, of high and low degree, to take personal credit for their successes, but to blame somebody else for their losses. And in this instance the only possible culprit of national stature is the President of the United States. They will attribute their defeats, if that should be their lot, to his unwillingness to extend a helping hand to the men who worked so hard to elect him.

Another unhappy result, no matter how the voting eventuates, may be that Ike will have a less cooperative Congress on his hands. This will be especially true if the Republicans show unexpected strength. They will figure that they can win without his assistance, and will answer aloofness with aloofness. They will turn completely sour, of course, if the Democrats stage even a minor comeback.

REASONS — Eisenhower's advisers are fully cognizant of the dangers inherent in his policy of political abstinence. But, aside from his sincere wish to be a national rather than a partisan Chief Executive—and few doubt his personal feelings on this question—there are practical reasons behind his action, in their opinion.

Ike has not yet rolled up a solid, constructive record for submission to the electorate, especially when it must be placed before the voters by proxy. He has not yet made any outstanding achievement in domestic or foreign affairs, or sufficiently emphasized any single issue, so that he or they can be tested in the proper framework or circumstances.

It may be that the President, as he has demonstrated several times, is a lot smarter than the impatient professionals!

FATEFUL CHOICE

WHETHER TO RING THE United States with a radar moat is one of the nation's more immediate problems that is pressing for solution. Out of the rather guarded official debate on the issue in past months have emerged two main facts.

The first is that no such screen, no matter how thoroughly backed by guided missiles and fighter planes, would be foolproof. The second is its staggering cost of construction, variously estimated from $10 billion up.

If it were decided to go ahead with the screen, it would be acknowledgment of the traditional American attitude that the enemy gets in the first blow, by surprise or otherwise. If open hostilities should be declared to the finish, the warning network would have decreasing importance. Passive defense would give way to active sea and air patrols and the whole nervous apparatus of a nation at war.

There are many persons who believe that $10 billion would be a small price to pay for what might prove to be the difference between victory and defeat. They concede that some planes would get through with their lethal cargo, but American forces, forwarned by the screen, could swiftly activate retaliatory measures.

This could be crucially important in a strange, fierce world holocaust in which relatively few missiles might determine the outcome.

NEW ATOMIC RACE

U. S. AND RUSSIA CAN be expected to fight for leadership in the peacetime development of atomic energy as bitterly as the two nations have struggled for supremacy in the atomic arms race. This is the significance of the government's unexpectedly announced plan to build a full-scale industrial power reactor without further delay.

The urgency surrounding the project betokens belated recognition that in the titanic struggle between Communism and the West ultimate victory will lie with the system accomplishing the greatest economic good.

Use of cheap, plentiful atomic power will give naturally endowed nations an unbelievable degree of economic stability. Hence, by sharing the fruits of their labors with underprivileged peoples and elevating their living standards, they should win their allegiance.

This objective has long been implicit in America's attitude toward the under-developed nations of the world. But until now there has been no all-out urgency to get on with the work.

Shrewd students of the global struggle now see such an incentive taking shape. They see Russia taking full advantage of the fabulous gifts of atomic energy to overtake America's long held power advantage and to forge ahead as an industrial giant.

Those who formerly rejoiced over record crops now are depressed by the thought that it calls for tax subsidies.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It had to come sooner or later that the opposition to President Eisenhower would be concentrated on one of his Cabinet members. So the fight is being made on Ezra Taft Benson, not for what he has done but for what he is being suspected of proposing to recommend should be done.

For, actually, what are being enforced today are still the laws enacted in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

Perhaps herein lies one of the major defects of the Eisenhower Administration. The world does not stand still while serious men study important problems. The rain fails to fall at the right time no matter which Administration is in office.

Crops are plentiful or inadequate; cattle grow numerous or are hungry on the range with or without the consent of those who sit in high office.

Secretary Benson is one of the most competent men in this Administration. He inherited a sprawling, overstaffed, messily political department which requires reorganization. For nearly 20 years, the Department of Agriculture has been used to build a vast ppolitical machine, one of the objects of which was to influence votes.

Every effort made by Secrtary Benson to smash the machine naturally encounters resistance.

The principal opposition to Benson comes from his own party and is led by Congressman Clifford R. Hope of Kansas, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, and Senator Milton R. Young of North Dakota. No charge can be made by them that Ezra Taft Benson has destroyed the doctrine of parity of weakened it, because this he has not done.

The objection is that he intends to find a way to stop spending about $500,000 a day to keep prices for agricultural commodities high. The government now owns or has loans on approximately four billion dollars of agricultural commodities.

No one advocates an absolute reversion of the law of supply and demand because it is obvious that if farm products were suddenly to be without supports and without controls, prices would be so low that the farmers would go broke. The economic consequence of that would be that we would have another depression of a very serious nature. The social consequence would be that the farmer would be reduced to peonage, many of the farms falling into the hands of banks, insurance companies and large speculative landowners, with the farmers working their own places as tenants. Nobody wants that. Nobody advocates that.

On the other hand, it is uneconomic and immoral to spend $500,000 a day on food and other farm products, to be stored, to waste and rot and spoil. Somewhere in between is common sense. So some talk about flexible price supports instead of a rigid system. Others talk about a two-price system—one price for domestic consumption; another for export.

Some talk of a gradual reduction of parity, etc. The proposals are numerous, except that nobody dares to suggest a free market in which the law of supply and demand shall prevail.

There he was again. His will against hers. They might be seen entering the shop together at a late hour.

"What would Mrs. Grundy say?" she asked.

"Mrs. Grundy, who's she, the janitress?"

Phil won.

How silent and eerie the shop, for all its bright furnishings, seemed at this hour. Phil found the glove.

"It's so quiet here, let's talk."

Phil grasped Nancy's hand, pulled her toward the chintz couch. She shook her hand free. She started to talk. She hardly knew what she was saying. Anything to distract his attention.

"You're a little devil, know it?"

Nancy stepped backward.

"Phil, stay there. I want to ask you something. Why have you done all this for me—this shop, everything—. You're supposed to be a notorious snob, and I, well I'm just Nancy Kelly from Cass street."

"Because you have more spirit in your little finger, than—"

He was holding both her hands now, crushing them until they hurt. There was desire in his dark eyes.

"Phil, once I told you that you were a beast."

He dropped her hands.

"I know, I know, redhead. I'm sorry."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON — Tomorrow's special elections in several politically strategic sections of the country—New York, New Jersey, Virginia and California, as well as in local contests elsewhere—will furnish a field test of President Eisenhower's recent retreat from partisan Republicanism rather than of his accomplishments since he entered the White House.

The results may influence the future attitude of professionally active GOPsters toward him, including the party's leaders from top to bottom and the key legislative operators on Capitol Hill. It will determine whether the political family which he adopted with some hesitation and reluctance will accept and support him as one of their own. As of today, they are extremely skeptical and standoffish. They do not regard him as one of their kin, in view of his seeming indifference to principles and loyalties so dear and so traditional to them.

ISSUES—This reaction may be unfortunate and unfair to Eisenhower, because it is possible that neither his assumption of aloofness nor his handling of national and international problems will be a decisive factor in tomorrow's sporadic affairs.

The selection of a new mayor of New York, New Jersey and Virginia governors, and a few representatives, may be decided on the basis of local issues. With the national and international scene still so clouded and uncertain, most of the office-seekers on both sides have preferred to stick to a discussion of strictly local questions and personalities.

NO RECORD—Clinging to Ike's coattails is no guarantee of victory for a GOP entry because these appendages of the Presidential apparel are flying in the wind. He has as yet made no record that would serve as a successful platform. And only the more hardy Democrats would dare to revive the New Deal and Fair Deal as current issues.

The voters may take Ike at his word, literally and politically, even though they know that a Republican sweep would be welcomed at the White House.

PSYCHOLOGY—But the party bosses will not be charitable to the President, if tomorrow night's returns reflect a sharp recession from last November's high tides and hopes. Then they were congratulating themselves that the triumph of such a popular figure as Eisenhower would keep them in power for an indefinite period, possibly as long as the Roosevelt-Truman regime.

It is the nature of politicians everywhere, of high and low degree, to take personal credit for their successes, but to blame somebody else for their losses. And in this instance the only possible culprit of national stature is the President of the United States. They will attribute their defeats, if that should be their lot, to his unwillingness to extend a helping hand to the men who worked so hard to elect him.

Another unhappy result, no matter how the voting eventuates, may be that Ike will have a less cooperative Congress on his hands. This will be especially true if the Republicans show unexpected strength. They will figure that they can win without his assistance, and will answer aloofness with aloofness. They will turn completely sour, of course, if the Democrats stage even a minor comeback.

REASONS — Eisenhower's advisers are fully cognizant of the dangers inherent in his policy of political abstinence. But, aside from his sincere wish to be a national rather than a partisan Chief Executive—and few doubt his personal feelings on this question—there are practical reasons behind his action, in their opinion.

Ike has not yet rolled up a solid, constructive record for submission to the electorate, especially when it must be placed before the voters by proxy. He has not yet made any outstanding achievement in domestic or foreign affairs, or sufficiently emphasized any single issue, so that he or they can be tested in the proper framework or circumstances.

It may be that the President, as he has demonstrated several times, is a lot smarter than the impatient professionals!

Crucial Games In Offing For Many Coaches

Only 4 Major Outfits Still Listed Among Undefeated Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Only four major college football teams remained undefeated and untied today as the campaign headed into the home stretch and the crucial games that could make or break many a coach.

Notre Dame, Maryland, Baylor and West Virginia are the only members of the select circle—and at least two of them would be just as happy if the season were over. Baylor still has three rugged Southwest Conference foes to play and West Virginia has a date with a better-than-average South Carolina outfit.

As for Notre Dame and Maryland, there isn't much to say about them except that there doesn't seem to be anyone on this continent to challenge them. Both seem to get stronger as the season progresses.

Joe McArdle, who substituted for Frank Leahy, the ailing master, Saturday emptied the Irish bench in an effort to hold down the score against Navy—the same Tars who were being touted only two weeks ago as the class of the East. The final count was 38-7.

Leahy, who collapsed at halftime of the Georgia Tech game nine days ago, had his doctor's permission to rejoin the team today if he didn't exert himself.

South Bend was swarming with scouts Saturday and they came away breathless. One, shaking his head, said he refused to believe Notre Dame could be as good as the team was advertised.

"Now I know," he said sadly.

Maryland, too, used its regulars for only about half the game with South Carolina but still won 24-6. Jim Tatum's Terps certainly should win the Atlantic Coast Conference title and go on to the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma, which seems certain of taking the Big Seven title again, especially after its convincing 34-0 triumph over Kansas State, the chief pretender to the throne.

The chances of Notre Dame being beaten, of course, are practically nil no matter what teams the Irish still had on their schedule. But for the record they still meet Penn, North Carolina, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist.

Maryland still has George Washington, Mississippi and Alabama on its schedule. Ol' Miss, which has been beaten only once—by Auburn — stands the best chance against the Terps.

Illinois has one foot in the door to high society. The Illini have been tied but not beaten. If they can get past Michigan Saturday, they should have clear sailing to the Big Ten title and a bid to the Rose Bowl. After Michigan, they have only Wisconsin and Northwestern to dispose of.

There was some worry in the Illini camp that Purdue might present a problem, especially after licking Michigan State the Previous week. But the Boilermakers couldn't stop J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates, the Illini's talented sophomores and unless one of them suddenly develops a case of the gout, it looks like no one else will.

The other Rose Bowl nominee still is up in the air because the Pacific Coast Conference race is far from settled. At the moment Stanford, winner of all five of its league games, rules the favorite. But it still must dispose of Southern California and California.

UCLA has lost only one conference game, that to Stanford, and still has a chance if the Trojans and Bears cooperate. UCLA also plays Southern Cal Nov. 21.

Southern Cal, Yale, Louisiana State and Utah are the latest to fall by the wayside although they all have been tied. Oregon surprised one and all by polishing off Southern Cal 13-7, while Dartmouth provided the form reversal of the Ivy League season by crushing Yale, which had hopes to walk off with the title. Now the standings are in a state of complete confusion.

Mississippi beat Louisiana State 27-16, and Washington stopped Utah, the leader of the Rocky Mountain Conference, 21-14.

Michigan State and Georgia Tech both of which had their long undefeated streaks snapped last week, rebounded with a vengeance and now each has a skein of one. State bashed Oregon State 34-6 and Tech swamped Vanderbilt 43-0. Both still have rocky roes to hoe. The Spartans must play Ohio State and Michigan and the Ramblin' Wrecks have Alabama and Duke to contend with.

Crucial Games In Offing For Many Coaches

Only 4 Major Outfits Still Listed Among Undefeated Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Only four major college football teams remained undefeated and untied today as the campaign headed into the home stretch and the crucial games that could make or break many a coach.

Notre Dame, Maryland, Baylor and West Virginia are the only members of the select circle—and at least two of them would be just as happy if the season were over. Baylor still has three rugged Southwest Conference foes to play and West Virginia has a date with a better-than-average South Carolina outfit.

As for Notre Dame and Maryland, there isn't much to say about them except that there doesn't seem to be anyone on this continent to challenge them. Both seem to get stronger as the season progresses.

Joe McArdle, who substituted for Frank Leahy, the ailing master, Saturday emptied the Irish bench in an effort to hold down the score against Navy—the same Tars who were being touted only two weeks ago as the class of the East. The final count was 38-7.

Leahy, who collapsed at halftime of the Georgia Tech game nine days ago, had his doctor's permission to rejoin the team today if he didn't exert himself.

South Bend was swarming with scouts Saturday and they came away breathless. One, shaking his head, said he refused to believe Notre Dame could be as good as the team was advertised.

"Now I know," he said sadly.

Maryland, too, used its regulars for only about half the game with South Carolina but still won 24-6. Jim Tatum's Terps certainly should win the Atlantic Coast Conference title and go on to the Orange Bowl against Oklahoma, which seems certain of taking the Big Seven title again, especially after its convincing 34-0 triumph over Kansas State, the chief pretender to the throne.

The chances of Notre Dame being beaten, of course, are practically nil no matter what teams the Irish still had on their schedule. But for the record they still meet Penn, North Carolina, Iowa, Southern California and Southern Methodist.

Maryland still has George Washington, Mississippi and Alabama on its schedule. Ol' Miss, which has been beaten only once—by Auburn — stands the best chance against the Terps.

Illinois has one foot in the door to high society. The Illini have been tied but not beaten. If they can get past Michigan Saturday, they should have clear sailing to the Big Ten title and a bid to the Rose Bowl. After Michigan, they have only Wisconsin and Northwestern to dispose of.

There was some worry in the Illini camp that Purdue might present a problem, especially after licking Michigan State the Previous week. But the Boilermakers couldn't stop J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates, the Illini's talented sophomores and unless one of them suddenly develops a case of the gout, it looks like no one else will.

The other Rose Bowl nominee still is up in the air because the Pacific Coast Conference race is far from settled. At the moment Stanford, winner of all five of its league games, rules the favorite. But it still must dispose of Southern California and California.

UCLA has lost only one conference game, that to Stanford, and still has a chance if the Trojans and Bears cooperate. UCLA also plays Southern Cal Nov. 21.

Southern Cal, Yale, Louisiana State and Utah are the latest to fall by the wayside although they all have been tied. Oregon surprised one and all by polishing off Southern Cal 13-7, while Dartmouth provided the form reversal of the Ivy League season by crushing Yale, which had hopes to walk off with the title. Now the standings are in a state of complete confusion.

Mississippi beat Louisiana State 27-16, and Washington stopped Utah, the leader of the Rocky Mountain Conference, 21-14.

Michigan State and Georgia Tech both of which had their long undefeated streaks snapped last week, rebounded with a vengeance and now each has a skein of one. State bashed Oregon State 34-6 and Tech swamped Vanderbilt 43-0. Both still have rocky roes to hoe. The Spartans must play Ohio State and Michigan and the Ramblin' Wrecks have Alabama and Duke to contend with.

Paddy Young Wants In On Olson Act Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody is getting into the Bobo Olson act. Now Paddy Young, the last guy Bobo eliminated before Randy Turpin, is back on the scene.

Paddy, making his first start since he lost to Olson June 19 for the American middleweight title, boxes Sammy Giuliani of Stamford, Conn., Friday in St. Nicholas Arena. The bout will be telecast.

If Paddy wins this one, he'll be yelling "I want Bobo" along with Kid Gavilan, Joey Giardello, Rocky Castellani and Ernie Durando.

The Eastern Parkway show, carried by Du Mont TV in New York tonight, will see Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn and Rocky Casillo of Chicago in a welter ten.

Chuck Davey bumps up against a "must" fight Wednesday at the Detroit Olympia (CBS-TV). It's a rematch with Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., who knocked him down and beat him at Saginaw, Mich., in September. The winner gets Billy Graham, veteran New Yorker, in Detroit Dec. 2.

Harold Johnson, leading light heavy challenger to champion Archie Moore, meets Henry Hall of New Orleans for the third time in Milwaukee on the Saturday night series (ABC-TV).

Wallace Pointer Wins 2nd Place

Ralph Wallace, Pickaway County humane officer, claimed a trophy during the annual Fairfield County Bird Dog Club field trials held Sunday.

Wallace's 15-months-old English pointer, "Titanium," sired by triple champion "Titanup," won second place honors in the "puppy stake" during the trials.

The county humane officer said he plans to enter the orange and white male pointer in a similar trial class next Sunday at Fostoria.

Browns, Rams Holding Leads In Pro Grid Loop Circuits

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League season has reached the halfway mark with the Cleveland Browns safely entrenched as leader of the Eastern Conference and the Los Angeles Rams holding down the top spot in the Western Division but by no great margin.

The Browns, only undefeated club in the 12-team circuit, chalked up win No. 6 yesterday by drubbing the Washington Redskins 27-3 with a three-touchdown parade in the last half.

The Rams took undisputed command of the Western Conference with a 37-24 triumph over Detroit's Lions, 1952 champions. The defeat dropped the Lions into a tie for second place with the San Francisco 49ers, who downed the Chicago Bears 24-14 as their injured quarterback, Y. A. Tittle, returned to action after an absence of three weeks.

The stands show the Rams with a 5-1 record compared to the 4-2 mark of the 49ers and the Lions.

Philadelphia's high scoring Eagles moved into the runner-up spot in the Eastern Conference with a 35-7 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The New York Giants won their second game of the season at the expense of the Chicago Cardinals 23-20 on a 75-yard pass play in the last seven seconds. Saturday night the Green Bay Packers whipped the Baltimore Colts 35-24.

The unenviable task of trying to stop the Browns falls to the Steelers this week at Cleveland. But a Pittsburgh victory wouldn't have any serious effect on the standings for the Eagles, who meet the Giants, trail by 2½ games.

Out on the West Coast the Rams and 49ers renew their feud at Los Angeles, where a record crowd of 93,751 sat in on yesterday's contest.

Yesterday the Rams found themselves on the short end of a 10-0 score at the end of the first period as the result of an intercepted pass by Jack Christiansen akk Doak Walker's field goal.

The Rams got back into the ball game on a 5-yard buck over the goal line by Skeet Quinlan and a field goal by Ben Agajanian. But the Lions' Jug Girard sprinted 85 yards to set up a 15-yard touchdown pass from Bobby Layne to Leon Hart. That was all of Detroit's scoring until the final minute when Hunch Hoernschemeyer went over from the 1.

Meantime, the Rams scored three times in the third period and once in the final quarter.

Tittle, his broken cheekbone protected by a mask, sparked the 49ers by setting up the first score, made by Joe Arenas, with a 47-yard pass and tossing to Bill Wilson for another touchdown. George Blanda tossed two touchdown passes, one to Bill McColl and the other to Billy Stone, to keep the Bears in the ball game.

The Browns had a nip and tuck affair with the Redskins before breaking the game wide open in the last half. They left the field at the half on the long end of a 6-3 score as the reslt of two field goals by Lou Groza, but took advantage of the breaks to make a runaway of the game. One of their touchdowns came after recovering a fumbled punt, another following a blocked kick and the third on an intercepted pass.

Bobby Thomason's passing wizardry was the Eagles' chief offensive weapon. He completed 22 of 33 passes, three for touchdowns. Jerry Williams and Harold Giancanelli went overland for the other two Philadelphia tallies.

The winless Cardinals apparently had the Giants whipped with a 20-17 lead and only 30 seconds remaining. Then Arnold Galiffa, ex-Army star, fired a 25-yard pass to Kyle Rote, who raced down the sidelines for the touchdown.

Dunlevy Claims Champion Title In Stock Races

A capacity crowd jammed the track at Washington Speedway Saturday and Sunday for the championship races in stock car races.

Dick Dunlevy of Dayton was top pilot in the big two-day show, winning the championship trophy in the "A" class feature Sunday afternoon.

Other trophy winners Sunday were Jim Washburn of Washington C. H., tops in the "B" class; and Wilson of Washington C. H., winner in the "C" class.

Shorty Devors of Ashville came in for honors in the "C" class during the two-day event, only local driver to share in laurels.

DEVORS won third place in a Saturday night elimination contest and then placed third in the Sunday afternoon "C" feature.

In Saturday's time trials, Elzie Whetnall of Columbus set a new speed mark for the Washington track. Whetnall whipped around the oval in 16.98 seconds. The previous mark was better than 17 seconds.

Another stock car racing program is planned on the track for next Sunday afternoon.

Football Players Show Toughness

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—The University of Oregon evidently has some tough football players.

A plane carrying two of them—Dean Van Leuven, 20, and Jerry Nelson, 22, crashed into a hillside Saturday night.

They were thrown through the windshield. Van Leuven, the pilot, estimated they were tossed forward 150 feet. Both suffered only cuts.

Sokolsky's

Involved in all this is the problem of personnel. Too many persons are employed in the Department of Agriculture and they cost too much money. The Hoover Commission recommended a reorganization of the department and the Congress has authorized it. Suggestions had to be made before Nov. 1 and have been made.

Secretary Benson believes that his reorganization plan will streamline the department and get for the taxpayer a dollar of work for a dollar paid. Those who have for years felt that they had a vested interest in a government job are worried whether their particular jobs will continue in existence.

Politicians who live by patronage are concerned over the elimination of jobs. In a word, Benson is chopping off the suckers on the tree of life. He encounters the kind of resistance which many typify by the word "impractical."

It is impractical to cut jobs in a Congressional election year and as that comes around on every even year, it is impractical to do anything constructive on even numbered years. Also it is impractical to do the same during the second half of odd numbered years because it might encroach on the even numbered years.

So, a wise man never risks his political neck by doing anything at all to save the taxpayer from the high cost of government.

That is what Ezra Taft Benson is up against.

Xavier Pilot Told 'You Ain't Coach'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A gate attendant sized up Xavier Coach Ed Kluska at Connie Mack Stadium Saturday and almost didn't allow him in to see the Villanova game.

"Where ya goin,' bud?" Kluska was challenged.

"Inside," he replied. "I'm the coach of the Xavier team."

"You ain't no football coach," the gatekeeper retorted. "You ain't because you don't look like a coach and besides you got one of them college-boy crew haircuts."

Kluska used his football diagrams and scouting reports to talk his way in.

Once in the reports didn't help Kluska too much. Xavier lost 21-14.

35 College 11s Still Undefeated

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirty-five college football elevens, including four major schools, remained unbeaten and untied today as the grid season moved into its final few weeks.

Notre Dame, Maryland, West Virginia and Baylor were the major teams who maintained their unblemished records.

Little Peru State Teachers of Nebraska tops the list with eight straight victories. Nine other colleges have won seven in a row.

In all, 11 teams lost their perfect standing over the weekend.

Illini Coach Is Chilled By Word: 'Rose'

CHICAGO (AP)—It isn't the Pasadena weather that makes Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois freeze the minute the word "rose" is mentioned to him.

He's been hearing the phrase a lot now that his Illini have established themselves as the prime Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl candidates.

But Eliot turns a chilly shoulder on anyone who dares suggest he and his boys have a good chance to wind up in California for the Jan. 1 game with the Pacific Coast Conference representative. He simply refuses to discuss it.

The Illini ran their 1953 undefeated string through five games Saturday by humbling hopeful Purdue 21-0 as the sophomore running team of Mickey Bates and J. C. Caroline led the way.

Michigan and Wisconsin still have a chance for at least a share of the title. The Wolverines, who beat Penn 24-14 in an intersectional game Saturday, have won two of three Big Ten games and so has Wisconsin.

The Badgers beat Iowa 10-6.

One of the other two crown contenders, Michigan State and Ohio State, will have to bow out after their game in Columbus Saturday. Each has won three and lost one in conference play. Both could be virtually eliminated in case of a tie. One loss appears to be the most any team can afford in the current championship race.

Texan Captures Mexican Tourney

MEXICO CITY (AP)—"It was the best golf I ever played in my life," a jubilant Billy Maxwell told admirers today.

The blond, 24-year-old Texan yesterday won the Mexico amateur championship when he defeated Frank Stranahan of Toledo, 8 and 6 in the finals on the 6,895-yard, par-72 Churubusco course.

53-0 Defeat Enough For Coach

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Purcell whipped their city foe Roger Bacon 53-0 yesterday.

After the game Roger Bacon Coach Walter Ornella said he had enough coaching and quit. This was his second season as head coach of the school.

Paddy Young Wants In On Olson Act Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody is getting into the Bobo Olson act. Now Paddy Young, the last guy Bobo eliminated before Randy Turpin, is back on the scene.

Paddy, making his first start since he lost to Olson June 19 for the American middleweight title, boxes Sammy Giuliani of Stamford, Conn., Friday in St. Nicholas Arena. The bout will be telecast.

If Paddy wins this one, he'll be yelling "I want Bobo" along with Kid Gavilan, Joey Giardello, Rocky Castellani and Ernie Durando.

The Eastern Parkway show, carried by Du Mont TV in New York tonight, will see Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn and Rocky Casillo of Chicago in a welter ten.

Chuck Davey bumps up against a "must" fight Wednesday at the Detroit Olympia (CBS-TV). It's a rematch with Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., who knocked him down and beat him at Saginaw, Mich., in September. The winner gets Billy Graham, veteran New Yorker, in Detroit Dec. 2.

Harold Johnson, leading light heavy challenger to champion Archie Moore, meets Henry Hall of New Orleans for the third time in Milwaukee on the Saturday night series (ABC-TV).

Wallace Pointer Wins 2nd Place

Ralph Wallace, Pickaway County humane officer, claimed a trophy during the annual Fairfield County Bird Dog Club field trials held Sunday.

Wallace's 15-months-old English pointer, "Titanium," sired by triple champion "Titanup," won second place honors in the "puppy stake" during the trials.

The county humane officer said he plans to enter the orange and white male pointer in a similar trial class next Sunday at Fostoria.

Browns, Rams Holding Leads In Pro Grid Loop Circuits

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League season has reached the halfway mark with the Cleveland Browns safely entrenched as leader of the Eastern Conference and the Los Angeles Rams holding down the top spot in the Western Division but by no great margin.

The Browns, only undefeated club in the 12-team circuit, chalked up win No. 6 yesterday by drubbing the Washington Redskins 27-3 with a three-touchdown parade in the last half.

The Rams took undisputed command of the Western Conference with a 37-24 triumph over Detroit's Lions, 1952 champions. The defeat dropped the Lions into a tie for second place with the San Francisco 49ers, who downed the Chicago Bears 24-14 as their injured quarterback, Y. A. Tittle, returned to action after an absence of three weeks.

The stands show the Rams with a 5-1 record compared to the 4-2 mark of the 49ers and the Lions.

Philadelphia's high scoring Eagles moved into the runner-up spot in the Eastern Conference with a 35-7 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers. The New York Giants won their second game of the season at the expense of the Chicago Cardinals 23-20 on a 75-yard pass play in the last seven seconds. Saturday night the Green Bay Packers whipped the Baltimore Colts 35-24.

The unenviable task of trying to stop the Browns falls to the Steelers this week at Cleveland. But a Pittsburgh victory wouldn't have any serious effect on the standings for the Eagles, who meet the Giants, trail by 2½ games.

Out on the West Coast the Rams and 49ers renew their feud at Los Angeles, where a record crowd of 93,751 sat in on yesterday's contest.

Yesterday the Rams found themselves on the short end of a 10-0 score at the end of the first period as the result of an intercepted pass by Jack Christiansen akk Doak Walker's field goal.

The Rams got back into the ball game on a 5-yard buck over the goal line by Skeet Quinlan and a field goal by Ben Agajanian. But the Lions' Jug Girard sprinted 85 yards to set up a 15-yard touchdown pass from Bobby Layne to Leon Hart. That was all of Detroit's scoring until the final minute when Hunch Hoernschemeyer went over from the 1.

Meantime, the Rams scored three times in the third period and once in the final quarter.

Tittle, his broken cheekbone protected by a mask, sparked the 49ers by setting up the first score, made by Joe Arenas, with a 47-yard pass and tossing to Bill Wilson for another touchdown. George Blanda tossed two touchdown passes, one to Bill McColl and the other to Billy Stone, to keep the Bears in the ball game.

The Browns had a nip and tuck affair with the Redskins before breaking the game wide open in the last half. They left the field at the half on the long end of a 6-3 score as the reslt of two field goals by Lou Groza, but took advantage of the breaks to make a runaway of the game. One of their touchdowns came after recovering a fumbled punt, another following a blocked kick and the third on an intercepted pass.

Bobby Thomason's passing wizardry was the Eagles' chief offensive weapon. He completed 22 of 33 passes, three for touchdowns. Jerry Williams and Harold Giancanelli went overland for the other two Philadelphia tallies.

The winless Cardinals apparently had the Giants whipped with a 20-17 lead and only 30 seconds remaining. Then Arnold Galiffa, ex-Army star, fired a 25-yard pass to Kyle Rote, who raced down the sidelines for the touchdown.

Dunlevy Claims Champion Title In Stock Races

A capacity crowd jammed the track at Washington Speedway Saturday and Sunday for the championship races in stock car races.

Dick Dunlevy of Dayton was top pilot in the big two-day show, winning the championship trophy in the "A" class feature Sunday afternoon.

Other trophy winners Sunday were Jim Washburn of Washington C. H., tops in the "B" class; and Wilson of Washington C. H., winner in the "C" class.

Shorty Devors of Ashville came in for honors in the "C" class during the two-day event, only local driver to share in laurels.

DEVORS won third place in a Saturday night elimination contest and then placed third in the Sunday afternoon "C" feature.

In Saturday's time trials, Elzie Whetnall of Columbus set a new speed mark for the Washington track. Whetnall whipped around the oval in 16.98 seconds. The previous mark was better than 17 seconds.

Another stock car racing program is planned on the track for next Sunday afternoon.

Football Players Show Toughness

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP)—The University of Oregon evidently has some tough football players.

A plane carrying two of them—Dean Van Leuven, 20, and Jerry Nelson, 22, crashed into a hillside Saturday night.

They were thrown through the windshield. Van Leuven, the pilot, estimated they were tossed forward 150 feet. Both suffered only cuts.

Sokolsky's

Involved in all this is the problem of personnel. Too many persons are employed in the Department of Agriculture and they cost too much money. The Hoover Commission recommended a reorganization of the department and the Congress has authorized it. Suggestions had to be made before Nov. 1 and have been made.

Secretary Benson believes that his reorganization plan will streamline the department and get for the taxpayer a dollar of work for a dollar paid. Those who have for years felt that they had a vested interest in a government job are worried whether their particular jobs will continue in existence.

Politicians who live by patronage are concerned over the elimination of jobs. In a word, Benson is chopping off the suckers on the tree of life. He encounters the kind of resistance which many typify by the word "impractical."

It is impractical to cut jobs in a Congressional election year and as that comes around on every even year, it is impractical to do anything constructive on even numbered years. Also it is impractical to do the same during the second half of odd numbered years because it might encroach on the even numbered years.

So, a wise man never risks his political neck by doing anything at all to save the taxpayer from the high cost of government.

That is what Ezra Taft Benson is up against.

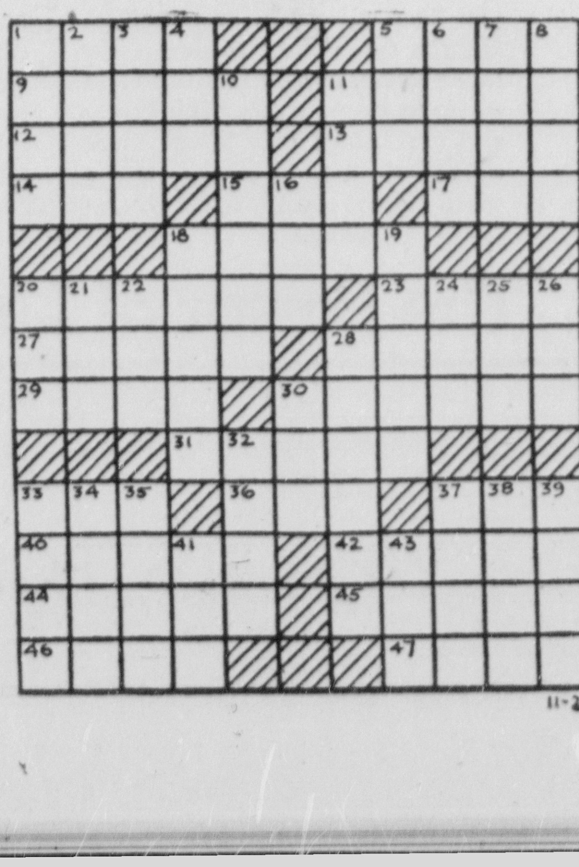
Saturday's Answer



Xavier Pilot Told 'You Ain't Coach'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A gate attendant sized up Xavier Coach Ed Kluska at Connie Mack Stadium Saturday and almost didn't allow him in to see the Villanova game.

"Where ya goin,' bud?" Kluska was challenged.

"Inside," he replied. "I'm the coach of the Xavier team."

"You ain't no football coach," the gatekeeper retorted. "You ain't because you don't look like a coach and besides you got one of them college-boy crew haircuts."

Kluska used his football diagrams and scouting reports to talk his way in.

Once in the reports didn't help Kluska too much. Xavier lost 21-14.

35 College 11s Still Undefeated

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirty-five college football elevens, including four major schools, remained unbeaten and untied today as the grid season moved into its final few weeks.

Notre Dame, Maryland, West Virginia and Baylor were the major teams who maintained their unblemished records.

Little Peru State Teachers of Nebraska tops the list with eight straight victories. Nine other colleges have won seven in a row.

In all, 11 teams lost their perfect standing over the weekend.

Illini Coach Is Chilled By Word: 'Rose'

CHICAGO (AP)—It isn't the Pasadena weather that makes Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois freeze the minute the word "rose" is mentioned to him.

He's been hearing the phrase a lot now that his Illini have established themselves as the prime Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl candidates.

But Eliot turns a chilly shoulder on anyone who dares suggest he and his boys have a good chance to wind up in California for the Jan. 1 game with the Pacific Coast Conference representative. He simply refuses to discuss it.

The Illini ran their 1953 undefeated string through five games Saturday by humbling hopeful Purdue 21-0 as the sophomore running team of Mickey Bates and J. C. Caroline led the way.

Michigan and Wisconsin still have a chance for at least a share of the title. The Wolverines, who beat Penn 24-14 in an intersectional game Saturday, have won two of three Big Ten games and so has Wisconsin.

The Badgers beat Iowa 10-6.

One of the other two crown contenders, Michigan State and Ohio State, will have to bow out after their game in Columbus Saturday. Each has won three and lost one in conference play. Both could be virtually eliminated in case of a tie. One loss appears to be the most any team can afford in the current championship race.

Texan Captures Mexican Tourney

MEXICO CITY (AP)—"It was the best golf I ever played in my life," a jubilant Billy Maxwell told admirers today.

The blond, 24-year-old Texan yesterday won the Mexico amateur championship when he defeated Frank Stranahan of Toledo, 8 and 6 in the finals on the 6,895-yard, par-72 Churubusco course.

53-0 Defeat Enough For Coach

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Purcell whipped their city foe Roger Bacon 53-0 yesterday.

After the game Roger Bacon Coach Walter Ornella said he had enough coaching and quit. This was his second season as head coach of the school.

Pole-Construction Buildings Pay Off For Poultrymen

Farmers Now Reaching For 50-Cent Mark

Plans Available For New Style Hen Shelters

With some careful planning, you may be able to approach that historic laying house cost of 50 cents a bird.

Cattle no longer have a monopoly on poled buildings, since pole-type poultry houses are springing up all over the nation. Poultrymen are looking to them as cost cutters, not as temporary structures.

Some poultrymen say they are building pole-type houses at half the cost of conventional structures. Whether for laying flocks, broilers or turkeys—Summer or year-around—these houses are meeting the need.

Take two New York farmers, Harold McEachron and Chalmers Hering. McEachron built a Summer laying shelter for 4,000 hens. He cut and split the building's 10-foot outer poles from black locust logs.

FOR THE INSIDE 20-footers, he had some of the logs rough hewn into 6 by 6's. They are set four feet deep in hand-dug holes.

The house is covered with galvanized roofing, and chicken wire encloses the entire southern exposure. Leaving a ventilating strip, the front can be boarded up for winterizing. Hinged panels on all three walls provide cross ventilation.

Hering put up a Winter-sealed pole building for growing four crops of meat birds a year. He can convert it easily into a year-around laying house.

Forty-five soft maple "weed trees" were cut and set in five rows, the only wood touching the ground. The floor is dirt, graded higher inside than out and covered with peanut shell litter.

He keeps rats and surface water out of the building with a two-foot wide sheet of tar-coated metal roofing set 18 inches in the ground around the outside and nailed to the poles.

A worksaving feature of Hering's pole building is a 10- by 10-foot "penthouse" grain room. One chute from the grain room delivers mash directly into an automatic feeder hopper on ground floor. Another routes special feeds from a bin for hand-feeding baby chicks.

* * *

CHECKING COSTS on the New York buildings, McEachron's 50- by 200-foot laying "barracks" was only $5,000, including labor costs. That's slightly over 50 cents a square foot of bird space—1.25 a hen.

Hering's tight 48- by 96-foot building for brooding and growing broilers cost $3,500, which is about 75 cents a square foot.

Poled houses are not limited to the northeast. Rudolph Krasny, Kansas poultryman, built a 30- by 100-foot year-around henhouse of the pole type at a cost of $700, not counting his labor.

Materials cost 58 cents a bird for the 1,200-bird house. Secondhand poles, purchased from a light company, were spaced 14 feet. He used mostly native cottonwood for dimension lumber.

When it comes to pole sheds for turkeys, Lee Lauffer, Pennsylvania farmer, says they're great labor savers. He has two sheds, one 30 by 400 feet and the other 52 by 170. His labor with 2,100 birds in the long shed is only two to three hours a week.

Kansas State College Extension Service, Manhattan, recently published plans for a 40 by 40-foot pole-type laying house to accommodate 500 hens. The Poultry Extension Office, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., offers a new leaflet on pole poultry houses.

Both publications tell you to select a relatively level site with good drainage. Poles, with a minimum 5-inch top, are best set 4 feet deep (5 feet in light soil) and spaced from 12 to 14 feet apart. Pressure-treated poles will last up to 50 years; home-treated ones, less than half that.

Armless Kiddies Getting Along OK

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Four children born without arms now have artificial ones that they move with their chest muscles, two surgeons reported here today.

The artificial limbs are connected to the muscle through a tubed skin graft, formed into a canal, and a peg.

Dr. Henry H. Kessler, an orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Jerome Gelb, a plastic surgeon, both of the Kessler Institution for rehabilitation in West Orange, N. J., said the children had to be trained to strengthen the muscles and use the artificial arms.

Firewater Law Helping Police

GALLUP, N. M. (AP) — Law enforcement officers in this area see at least two definite benefits from recent repeal of the law banning sale of liquor to Indians.

The first is a decrease in drunken driving by Indians. The other is a little less routine for police. The officers say that since the Indians can now drink in the towns, there should be fewer deaths due to exposure in the chilly canyons where they used to have to take their liquor.

Coroner Says Fright Kills Tot

SUTTON, W. Va. (AP)—Fourteen-month-old Rickey Dale Barnett died of convulsions on the back porch of his home yesterday when a stray dog approached.

Coroner A. P. Armstrong said the only reason he could determine for the death of the child was convulsions induced by fright.

The boy's grandfather said the dog did not growl or make any threatening move.

Bucks Battle In Frisco Zoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two red male deer in the Golden Gate Park herd battled yesterday in a battle for control of the eight does of the herd.

Hundreds of persons witnessed the two-hour struggle, brought on by the mating season. The result was a draw but Zoo Director Carey Baldwin said the fight might be resumed tomorrow.

The conflict was between a 3-year-old buck and the 5-year-old herd boss. They wrestled over some 40,000 square feet, their antlers locked together.

The battlers broke off from exhaustion after the younger deer appeared to be winning.

The treaty was initiated last August in a conference in Seoul between Rhee and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. It was a price for Rhee's acceptance of the July 27 armistice.

Pole-Construction Buildings Pay Off For Poultrymen

Farmers Now Reaching For 50-Cent Mark

Plans Available For New Style Hen Shelters

With some careful planning, you may be able to approach that historic laying house cost of 50 cents a bird.

Cattle no longer have a monopoly on poled buildings, since pole-type poultry houses are springing up all over the nation. Poultrymen are looking to them as cost cutters, not as temporary structures.

Some poultrymen say they are building pole-type houses at half the cost of conventional structures. Whether for laying flocks, broilers or turkeys—Summer or year-around—these houses are meeting the need.

Take two New York farmers, Harold McEachron and Chalmers Hering. McEachron built a Summer laying shelter for 4,000 hens. He cut and split the building's 10-foot outer poles from black locust logs.

FOR THE INSIDE 20-footers, he had some of the logs rough hewn into 6 by 6's. They are set four feet deep in hand-dug holes.

The house is covered with galvanized roofing, and chicken wire encloses the entire southern exposure. Leaving a ventilating strip, the front can be boarded up for winterizing. Hinged panels on all three walls provide cross ventilation.

Hering put up a Winter-sealed pole building for growing four crops of meat birds a year. He can convert it easily into a year-around laying house.

Forty-five soft maple "weed trees" were cut and set in five rows, the only wood touching the ground. The floor is dirt, graded higher inside than out and covered with peanut shell litter.

He keeps rats and surface water out of the building with a two-foot wide sheet of tar-coated metal roofing set 18 inches in the ground around the outside and nailed to the poles.

A worksaving feature of Hering's pole building is a 10- by 10-foot "penthouse" grain room. One chute from the grain room delivers mash directly into an automatic feeder hopper on ground floor. Another routes special feeds from a bin for hand-feeding baby chicks.

* * *

CHECKING COSTS on the New York buildings, McEachron's 50- by 200-foot laying "barracks" was only $5,000, including labor costs. That's slightly over 50 cents a square foot of bird space—1.25 a hen.

Hering's tight 48- by 96-foot building for brooding and growing broilers cost $3,500, which is about 75 cents a square foot.

Poled houses are not limited to the northeast. Rudolph Krasny, Kansas poultryman, built a 30- by 100-foot year-around henhouse of the pole type at a cost of $700, not counting his labor.

Materials cost 58 cents a bird for the 1,200-bird house. Second-hand poles, purchased from a light company, were spaced 14 feet. He used mostly native cottonwood for dimension lumber.

When it comes to pole sheds for turkeys, Lee Lauffer, Pennsylvania farmer, says they're great labor savers. He has two sheds, one 30 by 400 feet and the other 52 by 170. His labor with 2,100 birds in the long shed is only two to three hours a week.

Kansas State College Extension Service, Manhattan, recently published plans for a 40 by 40-foot pole-type laying house to accommodate 500 hens. The Poultry Extension Office, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., offers a new leaflet on pole poultry houses.

Both publications tell you to select a relatively level site with good drainage. Poles, with a minimum 5-inch top, are best set 4 feet deep (5 feet in light soil) and spaced from 12 to 14 feet apart. Pressure-treated poles will last up to 50 years; home-treated ones, less than half that.

Armless Kiddies Getting Along OK

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Four children born without arms now have artificial ones that they move with their chest muscles, two surgeons reported here today.

The artificial limbs are connected to the muscle through a tubed skin graft, formed into a canal, and a peg.

Dr. Henry H. Kessler, an orthopedic surgeon, and Dr. Jerome Gelb, a plastic surgeon, both of the Kessler Institution for rehabilitation in West Orange, N. J., said the children had to be trained to strengthen the muscles and use the artificial arms.

Firewater Law Helping Police

GALLUP, N. M. (AP) — Law enforcement officers in this area see at least two definite benefits from recent repeal of the law banning sale of liquor to Indians.

The first is a decrease in drunken driving by Indians. The other is a little less routine for police. The officers say that since the Indians can now drink in the towns, there should be fewer deaths due to exposure in the chilly canyons where they used to have to take their liquor.

Coroner Says Fright Kills Tot

SUTTON, W. Va. (AP)—Fourteen-month-old Rickey Dale Barnett died of convulsions on the back porch of his home yesterday when a stray dog approached.

Coroner A. P. Armstrong said the only reason he could determine for the death of the child was convulsions induced by fright.

The boy's grandfather said the dog did not growl or make any threatening move.

Bucks Battle In Frisco Zoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two red male deer in the Golden Gate Park herd battled yesterday in a battle for control of the eight does of the herd.

Hundreds of persons witnessed the two-hour struggle, brought on by the mating season. The result was a draw but Zoo Director Carey Baldwin said the fight might be resumed tomorrow.

The conflict was between a 3-year-old buck and the 5-year-old herd boss. They wrestled over some 40,000 square feet, their antlers locked together.

The battlers broke off from exhaustion after the younger deer appeared to be winning.
